HOPE FADES FOR RESCUE OF BURKE PLANE PARTY

Belief Grows Three Killed In Northern B.C. In Plane Crash

Little Hope Now Held Pilot E. J. A. Burke and Two Companions Are Alive; Anxiety Increases for Pilot Renahan and Two Companions Missing on British Columbia Coast.

Canadian Press
Vancouver, Nov. 6.—Little hope was held out here to-day for the safety of Capt. E. J. A. Burke and his two companions, missing with their plane in the Liar district of northern British Columbia for almost a month.

Since Burke and his companions, Emil Kading, mechanic of Vancouver, and Bob Martin, prospector, commenced on October 11 a return flight from Liar River post, 300 miles north of Astoria, no word has reached the outside world of their movements, and it is now believed the machine crashed and all three were killed.

Likewise fears are increasing for the safety of Pilot Robin Renahan, Frank Hatcher, mechanic, and Sam Clerk of Seattle, a prospector, who left Vancouver October 28 en route to Astoria to participate in the search for the Burke party.

The Renahan plane was reported at a Butedale cannery, 100 miles south of Prince Rupert, about six hours after it had left Vancouver, and since that time nothing definite has been learned of the fate of the party.

Pilot Ansel Ekmann of the Alaska-Washington Airways, reported from Prince Rupert yesterday evening, he had failed to find any trace of Pilot Renahan's machine in the district where he was last sighted.

A fisheries cruiser from Prince Rupert continued to range down the coast to-day looking for a trace of the Renahan party or its plane in the numerous bays and inlets.

DORRANT TO ALASKA
Meanwhile Pilot Frank Dorrandt, Pacific International Airways flier, who has spent two weeks in a futile search for the Burke party in the Astoria and Liar districts, plans to resume his interrupted flight from Wenatchee, Wash., to Alaska, where he has two contracts to pick up trappers and bring them outside before the winter freeze-up.

E. L. Wasson, Treadwell-Yukon Exploration Company pilot, who joined the search on Monday for the Burke party, is awaiting reinforcements before essaying further flights. It is possible a second Treadwell-Yukon plane will be sent from Whitehorse, Y.T., to aid Wasson.

Robin Renahan, for six weeks prior to leaving for the north, piloted the plane in regular service between Victoria and Vancouver.

Conservative Elected In North Vancouver

Small Vote Returns Loutet to B.C. Legislature in By-election

Polled 2,194 Votes For 428 Majority Over Bridgman; Liberal Standing Reduced

North Vancouver Nov. 6.—On a vote estimated at 50 per cent of those eligible to cast their ballots North Vancouver yesterday returned Alderman J. Loutet, Conservative, in the provincial by-election to fill the seat made vacant in the B.C. Legislature by the election of Hon. Ian Mackenzie to the Federal House.

With Gamber Island with eighteen votes to hear from the count stands: Alderman J. Loutet, Conservative, 2,194; Alderman F. H. Bridgman, Liberal, 1,768.

CROUCH WILL ASK SAANICH VINDICATION

Ex-Reeve William Crouch Will Seek Re-election For Final Term

Unseated Recently Because of Purchase of Municipal Gasoline, He Explains

William Crouch, reeve of Saanich for four terms, who resigned his office recently as a result of a technical disqualification, will seek re-election for a fifth and final term at the municipal elections next January.

"I will run simply upon my past record. If re-elected I will look upon the honor as a vote of confidence from the electors. I would definitely retire from the reeve's office next year and not seek re-election," he announced this morning.

Mr. Crouch stated that retirement at the termination of a fifth year as reeve would not necessarily mark his withdrawal from municipal public life. "I like the work of assisting in public affairs," he stated, "and I would possibly seek a seat on the municipal council or on the School Board," he explained.

When announcing his candidature for re-election as reeve, Mr. Crouch stated that earlier in the year he had seriously thought that he could retire from the reeve's office at the end of his fourth year.

PRESSURE GREAT
"In view of the overwhelming number of letters and telephone calls I have received, urging me to allow my name to go before the electors, and owing to the fact that I had to tender my resignation as reeve a few weeks ago, simply because I had bought from the municipality all the gasoline used by my car in attending to municipal business, I feel that I must re-enter the municipal campaign at the next elections," Mr. Crouch stated.

Mr. Crouch stated that during the last twenty-one months he had paid Saanich $282 for gasoline. During his four years service as reeve he traveled over 40,000 miles upon municipal business. During the whole of that period he had never received a gallon of gasoline from the municipality which was not paid for. He believed this mileage to be a record and something to be proud of.

Harbor Board Dismissals Intimation of What Might Have Been Expected, Pattullo Says

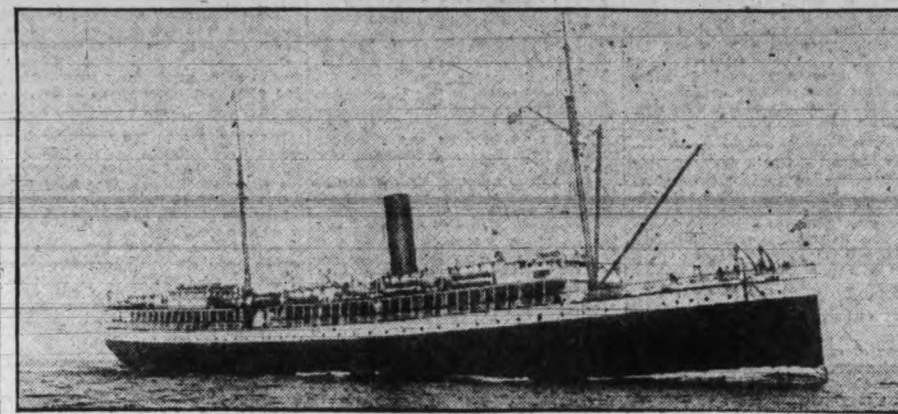

The preponderant factor in yesterday's by-election was the argument that North Vancouver should not place itself in opposition to both the Dominion and Provincial Governments, T. D. Pattullo, B.C. Liberal leader, said to-day in commenting upon the election of a Conservative candidate to the B.C. Legislature. He also points out the vote was fifty per cent only of the electors registered.

He declared that Premier Tolmie led a bludgeoning procession and points to the dismissal of thirty employees of the Vancouver Harbor Board as an indication of what further might have been expected in North Vancouver if the Conservatives had won.

Alaska Ship Loses Rudder In Storm

SS. Northwestern, With Passengers Aboard, Taken in Tow By Tugs After Perilous Time

The Victoria steamer Salvage King of the Pacific Salvage Company was prepared to-day to go to the aid of the steamship Northwestern in Alaska waters should she be needed to tow the disabled craft south to Seattle. There is no hurry to dispatch a towing craft north now as the Northwestern must wait with her passengers until a relief vessel takes them aboard next Wednesday. It is possible the Salvage King may be given the job of towing the ship to Seattle if other tugs are unable to handle her in the rough weather conditions now prevailing in northern waters.

Seattle, Nov. 6.—Favored by wind and tide, the disabled Alaska steamer Northwestern was being towed to-day by two small boats to Dundas Bay, Cross Sound, in Southeastern Alaska, where she will be anchored until tugs arrive from here to bring her to drydock. The passengers will remain aboard the vessel until the arrival next Wednesday of the liner Alameda, which will sail from Seattle Saturday.

REPORTS BY RADIO
Captain C. A. Glascock, master of the Northwestern, wireless company offices here the gas boat Emma and the Seattle fishing boat Tordenskjold had taken the liner in tow and probably would be able to take her into Dundas Bay, a refuge in the past for several disabled ships.

The Northwestern, carrying passengers for Cordova, La Touche and Seward, sent out SOS signals this morning when she lost her rudder two miles off Cape Spencer, in icy straits.

The United States coastguard cutter Raids is due at the scene of the accident to-morrow morning.

ROUGH WEATHER
The Northwestern, a steel and iron vessel of 1,949 net tons, 336 feet long and built in 1889, first sent out a distress signal at 6:27 a.m. Pacific standard time. She sailed from here Saturday for Southwestern Alaska ports.

GRAY SEEKS TWELFTH TERM AS NEW WESTMINSTER MAYOR

New Westminster, Nov. 6.—Mayor A. Wells Gray, M.P.P., to-day announced he would seek election for his twelfth term. He will be opposed by Dr. J. S. Pirie, candidate of the New Westminster Ratepayers' Association.

The Labor Temple was crowded to the doors Wednesday evening during the meeting which resulted in the nomination of Dr. Pirie. Severe criticism was leveled at the council for the manner in which civic relief was being conducted. It was maintained more than $45,000 might have been obtained from the government had works more urgent than parks been included in the council's programme.

NEW ICE RINK MAY BE BUILT IN VICTORIA

Stan V. Smith Tells B.C. Amateur Hockey Association Hockey May Return Here

Arena Would Be Built Next Season; Art Jefferd Is New President

One of the outstanding features of the annual meeting of the B.C. Amateur Hockey Association, held in Vancouver yesterday evening, was the announcement by Secretary Stanley Smith that hockey would probably return to Victoria next year. There was a strong possibility of a new arena being built there, he said.

No confirmation of the proposed new arena could be obtained in Victoria to-day. Victoria has been without an arena since the Willow Ice plant burnt to the ground last November. Efforts have been made to obtain a new plant here, but no definite announcement has been forthcoming.

Mr. Smith also stated that Vancouver was reasonably sure of securing the Allan Cup finals in the spring. He was re-elected secretary-treasurer and was highly complimented upon the efficiency of his work during the past year.

NEW OFFICERS ELECTED
Art Jefferd, one of the pioneers of amateur hockey in B.C., was elected president of the association, succeeded by J. C. Urquhart of Roseland, who was unable to accept office for another term.

Following is the new slate of officers: Honorary president, H. B. S. P. Tolmie, Victoria; honorary vice-presidents, S. G. Blaylock, Trail; H. C. Martin, G. F. Giles, C. G. Pennock, George T. Cunningham and W. G. Martin, Vancouver; president, Art Jefferd, Vancouver; vice-president, K. W. Kinnard, Vernon; secretary-treasurer, Stan V. Smith, Vancouver; executive, A. E. Farthing, Revelstoke; C. D. Blackwood, Nelson; W. J. Cleave, Kimberley; J. P. Watson, Victoria; Allan Fellows, and one other to be named by the Vancouver league.

The meeting was attended by representatives of the Vancouver Hockey League and its member clubs, Revelstoke Intermediate and Juniors, Kimberley Seniors and Trail Seniors. Outside members of the executive were: President J. C. Urquhart of Roseland, Past-president J. Perry Watson of Victoria, A. E. Farthing, Revelstoke, W. J. Cleave of Kimberley and K. W. Kinnard of Vernon.

SAYS AMOUNT INADEQUATE
A strong plea for further relief was voiced by Mayor Malkin as leader of the delegation, came before the recently appointed committee of the cabinet named for the purpose of dealing with applications of B.C. municipalities under the scheme this morning.

The new committee, of which Hon. W. A. McKenzie, Minister of Labor, is chairman, and Hon. R. W. Bruhn, Minister of Works, and Hon. S. L. Howe, Provincial Secretary, members, convened this morning, and the interview with the Vancouver delegation was the first business transacted.

MINE BLAST DEATH TOLL SEVENTY-SIX

All Bodies Brought From Pit in Ohio After Explosion Disaster

Canadian Press
Millfield, Ohio, Nov. 6.—No. 6 mine of the Sunday Creek Coal Company gave up the last of its dead shortly after 7:30 this morning when the seventy-sixth body of the men who met death when an explosion and fire wrecked the underground workings late yesterday was brought to the surface.

Fear that toll might be increased, however, was expressed by rescue workers and officials of the Sunday Creek Company because of the serious condition of eighteen men who escaped from the inferno alive. They were brought to the surface late last night and early to-day after having spent several hours in the gas filled shaft.

The bodies of the victims were placed in an improvised morgue in an empty store room and efforts were made to-day to identify them.

BRITISH PAPERS DISCUSS THE U.S. ELECTION RESULTS
London, Nov. 6.—Results of Tuesday's elections in the United States attracted popular British attention principally as they turned on the prohibition question and indicated growth of opposition to the Eighteenth Amendment.

Serious editorial comment, while noting the wet tendency in some states, took the view "any immediate alteration of the prohibition law was not to be expected and that everything pointed to the United States still remaining nominally dry."

Parties So Evenly Divided in Two Chambers Hoover Will Have Much Trouble

Latest Reports Give Republicans 217 Seats of 435 in the House

Associated Press
Washington, Nov. 6.—Associated Press returns this afternoon from congressional districts on Tuesday's contests for the 435 seats in the new House of Representatives of the United States showed: Republicans elected 217, present congress 260.

Democrats elected 213, present congress 160.

Farmer-Labor elected 1, present congress 1.

Still doubtful 4.

Necessary for a majority 218.

In view of the close races in Kentucky and Minnesota for the Senate, the possibilities this afternoon were that one party would outnumber the other by one vote. Should the Democrats capture both undetermined seats, they would have forty-eight seats, the Republicans forty-seven, and Farmer-Labor one.

OFFICIAL COUNTS AWAITED
Although the Republicans apparently have retained House control, the Democratic national committee announced to-day it would refuse to accept the unofficial returns as final in the close districts in Illinois, Indiana and Pennsylvania. The committee assumed the attitude of awaiting the final outcome on the basis of the official count.

The Republican National Committee also adopted an attitude of awaiting the returns from the remaining doubtful districts.

Although no formal predictions were forthcoming from that quarter, it was said at Republican headquarters the party probably would have:

INDIA POET SENT TO PRISON

Bombay, India, Nov. 6.—The Indian poet, Harindranath Chattopadhyaya, who was arrested yesterday while addressing a forbidden meeting, was sentenced to-day to one year rigorous imprisonment on a charge of membership in "an unlawful association, the All-India National Congress."

THREE TRUSTEES SEEK RE-ELECTION
George Jay Will Stand Again For Board; Has Twenty-seven Years' Service

Chairman George Jay and Trustees W. C. Moresby, K.C., and G. A. Heden announced to-day they would seek re-election in December to the Victoria School Board.

These three are the retiring members of the board, each having served two years on the last term.

Gasoline went down to thirty-one cents a gallon in Victoria to-day.

The cut of two cents a gallon was city-wide and will be absorbed by the retailers, it was learned. The wholesale price is unchanged. Although distributing companies who arranged the reduction denied there was any price war, it was reported the action was taken because several independent dealers have been selling at reduced rates for some time to their customers.

First word of the reduction came from Union Oil stations which displayed signs this morning announcing the lower price.

The Imperial and Home Oil distributors said all stations operating in connection with them had put the two-cent reduction in force. Shell distributors said most stations using their gas were privately owned.

Runners of a price war were denied on all sides. Wholesalers said they had no direct hand in the reduction. Officials of all companies stated the wholesale price was not affected.

But gas was also lowered, going down to thirty-three cents a gallon. Both prices include the five-cent Government tax.

RETAILERS ABSORB LOSS
Whether or not the reduction will be permanently effective could not be determined. With retailers absorbing the two-cent loss in profits, it was thought the cut might be only temporary.

In some circles the reduction was regarded as a move by retailers to establish a standard price all over the city in order to prevent a rate war which might ensue through independent dealers reducing prices to special customers.

DEALERS' CONFERENCE
The reduction follows continued agitation by motorists and dealers all over the city. A conference of dealers recently decided to meet the wholesalers and discuss the situation. It is believed the cut is an outcome of this action.

One independent dealer recently announced thirty-cent gasoline and others have dropped to this figure on to-day's cut.

Recalls Early Days of Victoria and California and Fraser Gold Rushes

Daniel McIntosh, Scotsman, California forty-niner, seaman and for nearly sixty years one of Victoria's most well-known citizens, will celebrate his hundredth birthday anniversary on Saturday, November 22, at his comfortable home, 516 Constance Avenue, Esquimalt.

Although somewhat afflicted with the natural infirmities of old age, which this year compelled abandonment of his garden hobby, Mr. McIntosh is blessed with an active mind, a magnificent memory and a gift for dramatic expression which enables him to hold audiences enthralled while he unfolds stories of his adventurous career.

A HARDY SCOTSMAN
Born in Glasgow in 1830, the year Sallor William ascended the British throne as William IV, Mr. McIntosh was brought to North America by his parents while a small child. In 1849 in California he deserted a seafaring life to take part in the gold rush, and

FIFTY PER CENT VOTE

The vote cast in North Vancouver was less than fifty per cent of the total number of persons eligible for registration under the Elections Act, Mr. Pattullo said. "The total number of persons eligible for registration under the franchise in yesterday's by-election was 4,000 votes were cast, in the Dominion campaign, 7,300 votes were cast in the same area."

"With the defeat of our administration in 1928, the Liberal organization in North Vancouver, not anticipating either a by-election or a general election for some years, made no effort towards the re-registration of those who had not voted at the general election in 1928. Of the 600 additional names would account for the majority of the government candidate. This is an aspect of the situation to which the attention of the public has not been directed."

HEADED PROCESSION

"I think it will be generally conceded, however, that the preponderant factor in this by-election was the argument that North Vancouver should not place itself in opposition to both the Dominion and Provincial Governments. It is very well for my friend, Dr. Toole, to say that no pressure of a bludgeoning character was exercised by his administration. The fact of the matter is that the doctor headed the procession."

"Then again, the action of the Harbor Board, whether in itself a proper or an improper one, in dismissing some thirty odd employees at the time when they were also dismissing them, was an evidence of what might be further expected should North Vancouver vote adversely to the government candidate."

LORD STONEHAVEN SAYS HE IS EAGER TO KNOW THIS COUNTRY BETTER

Ex-Governor-General of Australia, Here To-day, on Coast 20 Years Ago

Will Remain in City Until Sunday; Addresses Canadian Club To-morrow

"It has been twenty years since I last visited Canada and I made up my mind to see something of this wonderful country on the expiration of my term of office in Australia," said Lord Stonehaven of Ury, P.C., G.C.M.G., D.S.O., for the last five years Governor-General of Australia, on his arrival by the motor liner Aorangi to-day from Auckland.

The ex-Governor explained to newspapermen who met him on board the Aorangi that he was out of touch with current developments in Australia as he has spent a month in New Zealand and had been three weeks at sea.

His successor to the Governor-Generalship of Australia has not yet been announced. Lord Stonehaven is Acting Governor-General at Canberra.

Lord Stonehaven smiled complacently when questioned as to the suggestions emanating from the Commonwealth that an Australian should be appointed as Governor. All he could say was that the office is still open.

Premier J. H. Scullin, who has been representing Australia at the Imperial Conference, is still in London.

ABLE TO GET ALONG "Australia will be able to get along," significantly remarked Lord Stonehaven when asked for his views as to conditions in the Commonwealth. "There is nothing more than you already know through the usual news channels. Personally, I have been away from Australia several weeks and am out of touch."

"But I am going to get to know more about Canada before I leave," he said with animation. "Early in my parliamentary career I came out to this country from England and traveled far west as Vancouver. A great deal can happen in twenty years, you know, and Canada has developed enormously within that time. Yes, I am most anxious to see all I can of Canada."

TO VISIT OTTAWA Before embarking for England he will be entertained with Lady Stonehaven and their two daughters, Hon. Ariel Baird and Hon. Ava Baird, by Viscount and Viscountess Willingdon at Rideau Hall in Ottawa.

MET AT WHARF Lord Stonehaven was met at the ship shortly before the noon hour by Colonel LEONARD W. MURRAY, R.C.N., representing the Governor-General of Canada, and by A. M. D. Fairbairn, secretary to Lieutenant-Governor Bruce.

The distinguished party was driven to Government House, where Lieutenant-Governor Bruce, Miss Mackenzie and Premier Toole greeted them.

TO SPEAK TO-MORROW At 12.15 o'clock to-morrow Lord Stonehaven will speak before the Men's Canadian Club at a luncheon to be held at the Empress Hotel.

To-morrow evening Lord and Lady Stonehaven will meet a number of prominent Victorians at dinner at the Empress Hotel.

Lord Stonehaven boarded the Aorangi at Auckland and was met at Honolulu by Lady Stonehaven and their two daughters, who traveled to the Hawaiian Islands from Australia by way of the Orient.

Capt. J. M. Blackiston-Houston, military aide to Lord Stonehaven, left the ship at Honolulu and will rejoin the party in Canada via San Francisco.

The party will leave Victoria on Sunday, and will cross the continent over the Canadian Pacific Railway, the private car "Kilmarney" having been placed at their disposal.

Before the Aorangi sailed this afternoon, the ex-Governor-General of Australia made a date with Capt. Robert Crawford, commander of the liner, to have dinner with him on Sunday evening in Vancouver.

DIPLOMATIC CAREER Lord Stonehaven began his duties as Governor-General of the Australian Commonwealth in 1925. He was educated at Eton, Christchurch and Oxford, and then entered the diplomatic service, being attached to the British embassy in Vienna in 1896. Later he was transferred to Egypt and Abyssinia.

In 1900 he was private secretary to Sir William Carrington, and two years later was acting agent and consul-general in Abyssinia. He was political officer in British East Africa and on the Abyssinian frontier survey up to 1903, and also served in a similar capacity with the Abyssinian army in Somaliland. He was second secretary at the embassy in Paris for two years and then went to Buenos Aires.

Lord Stonehaven served in the Great War as intelligence officer, and was awarded the Distinguished Service Order. From 1916 to 1918 he was parliamentary member of the Air Board and in that year was appointed parliamentary under-secretary of state for the Royal Air Force. His parliamentary service dated from 1916 to 1923, when he represented the Rugby division of Warwickshire and Ayr Burghs.

From 1919 to 1922, Lord Stonehaven was parliamentary under-secretary of State in the Home Office and also held the office of Minister of Transport and first commissioner of works.

Toronto, Nov. 6.—Entering on the third day of his trial, Malcolm Stobie, C. J. Forling and Gordon Draper, of the defunct stock brokerage firm of Stobie-Forling and Company, facing charges of conspiracy to defraud the public and conspiracy to affect the market price of stocks, in the Stobie case, before Mr. Justice Jeffrey, listened to evidence of Ross McKenzie, accountant for the prosecution.

According to the evidence of McKenzie, on September 16, 1929, the firm was short in stocks to the value of $7,247,900, and on January 30 of this year was short $3,978,905 on five stocks.

Captain A. Glascock, commanding the vessel, reported she was helpless in heavy seas in the Gulf of Alaska, which is notoriously rough.

P. W. Holmes and Earl Bowers were listed as passengers for Cordova, while the following were booked for Seward: W. J. Moran, Miss J. Preston, Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Rockefeller, Mrs. Edith Thoday, John Sall, John Carlson, Eva Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Gus Norilla, Mrs. J. Husky and two children.

a burden the province should carry. With men drifting in to Vancouver from outside points he thought Vancouver should be given some aid from direct relief funds of the province, if nothing were available from the Federal unemployment fund. He also sought information as to whether the government would make a grant from the unemployment fund toward money if ratepayers endorsed measures to be presented to them on December 10.

Consideration was promised the application of the Vancouver delegation.

SIXTY-FIVE APPLY Applications of other cities and municipalities of the province were considered by the committee during the day.

To date sixty-five municipalities have reported under the plan, with approximately forty programmes already approved and works commenced. Besides this the government has instituted a comprehensive scheme of emergency work in unorganized territory on its own account.

Four additional agreements ratifying emergency works in municipalities were signed by Premier Toole, yesterday, as follows: Nelson, $5,810; Ladysmith, $1,500; Vanderhoof, $750, and Peachland, $600, where the amounts shown are for the face of the agreements, and therefore half the cost of the work approved.

Municipal programmes aggregating $1,290,481, as the total estimated cost of work to be carried out, have now been ratified by the government, which will contribute one-quarter of this cost.

Members of the government feel any comment on the report should come from those in closer touch with the situation, such as Premier R. B. Bennett or members of the Canadian delegation to the Imperial Conference, all of whom are now in England.

THE BY-ELECTION

terday that its interests would be better served by sending a supporter of the government to the Legislature than by remaining in the cool shades of opposition, even though its representative in the latter case would have been so able and progressive a man as Mr. Bridgman. To make its decision perfectly clear, it gave Mr. Loutet, the government candidate, the considerable majority of 412 votes.

It is plain enough that most of the electors of North Vancouver were more concerned with the political position of the constituency in relation to the provincial government than they were with the future of the P.G.E. as far as it could directly affect them. The seat is part of the electoral district of Vancouver North, which is in opposition at Ottawa, and the majority of its voters obviously had no desire to occupy a position of splendid isolation from both governments. The constituency now rides in the same wagon with Vancouver—in opposition at Ottawa, but in the seats of the mighty in Victoria.

As far as the P.G.E. issue is concerned, North Vancouver evidently is reconciled to the prospect of the line being sold to some private corporation without much likelihood of its extension from Squamish to Burrard Inlet. As a matter of fact, the town is bound to go ahead in any case; it is virtually a part of the third biggest city in Canada and will grow as the larger that community grows. What it desires more than the P.G.E. is adequate bridge connection with Vancouver proper. Perhaps the provincial government is expected to provide that improvement.

Naturally, the result of this by-election will hearten the government in no small measure, because there has been ominous evidence in other quarters that public sentiment towards it has become unfriendly, and for some time it has had a sinking feeling in the pit of its political stomach. But the government would make a serious mistake if it interpreted the victory as a sign that dissatisfaction on the Lower Mainland with its methods of conducting the business of the province has in any way abated, or that it is now free to pursue still further the policies which have produced this discontent, and which, as the record shows, have landed the province in an unsatisfactory condition.

THEY KNOW THEIR CANADA

IT IS FAR FROM A PLATITUDE TO say that Canada's future rests secure upon her wealth of natural resources and the indomitable courage and enterprise of her people. But we are not fair to ourselves nor to our country if we do not let this fundamental fact cheer us in times of temporary depression.

In this regard The Toronto Star refers to the inspiration to be found in the recent carefully-phrased speeches of two prominent Canadians who are not given to "careless statements"—Mr. Newton Wesley Rowell, K.C., and Mr. Arthur Meighen, K.C., and it considers their recent utterances "a drastic antidote to any attack of the blues." The caption of The Star's editorial is "No Blue Ruin Here!" and it says "a former Premier of Canada and a former member of the Canadian Privy Council have made declarations as to Canada's future which the pessimists and the whisperers of death would do well to heed." Our contemporary's comments read in part as follows:

Mr. N. W. Rowell, in a vigorous speech before the Ontario Club, pointed out that Canada's resources ensure Canada's success; that Canada's progress is certain, irrespective of temporary cycles of depression; that Canada has the things the world needs—foods, metals, timber—and cannot help but forge ahead.

Mr. Arthur Meighen, speaking at a dinner given by the Ontario Jewelers' Association, was equally clear as to the Dominion's future. Cycles of prosperity and hard times were no new phenomena, he said. Canada has come through periods of depression before now, and in a few years she would have more men employed than ever before. He considered her better able to cope with hard times than the older nations, and he looked forward to a complete and satisfactory readjustment of her economic life.

Neither Mr. Rowell nor Mr. Meighen is given to careless statements. They are not men who talk idly or refuse to face the facts of the situation. Their clear-cut declarations of faith in Canada's ability to emerge from a temporary period of depression should hearten the Canadian people. The future is bright and Canada will march forward to new conquests and greater achievements.

All Mr. Rowell and Mr. Meighen said in their speeches is true, and nothing that may be said to the contrary will dilute the truthfulness of their statements one iota. But simple fact often is slow to penetrate. And all Canadians can help to bring about the progress to which these two gentlemen allude if they will resort to the elementary practice of buying more Canadian goods, and less of the foreign article, than has been their wont. Of all times this is one for a practical display of Canadianism in its broadest sense.

MR. ROOSEVELT'S TRIUMPH

ONE OF THE OUTSTANDING FEATUres of the Congressional elections in the United States is the size of the majority by which Franklin D. Roosevelt was endorsed as the governor of New York—a striking tribute to his personal popularity and his administrative abilities. He was elected by a plurality of no less than 728,000 votes, a margin which is the largest in the history of the state, the previous record plurality for a candidate being that of 585,000, gained by Alfred E. Smith over Nathan L. Miller in 1922. It also is pointed out from Democrat headquarters that a hundred thousand of Mr. Roosevelt's plurality came from recognized Republican territory up-state, a circumstance said to be almost without a parallel in that region.

Mr. Roosevelt's overwhelming victory is taken to mean that he is almost certain to be the choice of the Democrats for the presidential election in 1931. In 1920, it will be recalled, he was the party's nominee for the vice-presidency, the contest in which Harding and Coolidge replaced Wilson and Marshall.

A significant feature of Tuesday's election is the return of the southern states to the Democrat column. The "solid south" was far from solid in the contest of 1928, when the Republicans made substantial inroads into this stronghold. The religious question and Mr. Smith's outspoken advocacy of a change in the country's liquor laws caused many Democrat votes to be cast for Republican candidates. These apparently now have returned to their traditional party, and the south is practically solid Democrat once more.

THE ALL-CANADIAN CONGRESS OF
Labor, now in annual session, has decided to ask the Dominion Minister of Labor to investigate the activities of the Canadian National Millers' Association in regard to what the organization calls the excessive price of flour. A Vancouver delegate led the attack with a question as to why there is a difference of two dollars between the price of domestic and export flour, and why it is possible for an eastern independent mill to make flour of western wheat and ship it back to the west and sell it for $4.90, as against a usual price of more than eight dollars. Quoting figures, this delegate estimated that the ultimate return for the four bushels of wheat necessary to make one barrel of flour is nine dollars and twenty cents.

The country as a whole is vitally interested in this question of the price of flour, or rather the retail price of the sixteen-ounce loaf. So far they have been able to learn very little about the reason why there should be such a big difference between the cost of bread in this country and Great Britain. They do not understand how the four-pound loaf—made mostly from wheat grown in Canada—can be baked and sold in the United Kingdom for sixteen or seventeen cents, while Canadians pay between eight and ten cents for a loaf only one-quarter of that weight. If there is an explanation which justifies the higher price in Canada, the Canadian consumer would like to have it, and those who control the price should have nothing to fear in making it public.

Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick would flash from the Baptist Cathedral in New York this sign: "Public Service; Light and Power." Some might object to combining the lingo of commercialism with the appeal to worshippers. But there is much of Christian significance in Dr. Fosdick's slogan.

TAKING DEFEAT

Manchester Guardian

When the Roman Consuls returned from the field of Cannae and reported that 80,000 of their men had been slaughtered by the Carthaginians the Senate voted that they had deserved well of their country. His countrymen will say no less about Sir Thomas Lipton, to whom some similar misadventure has happened. No one was ever more cheerful and determined than he in misfortune nor more richly provided with occasions for exhibiting those qualities. He has been seriously misadvised both by the law of averages, which might have been expected to rectify any inferiority in a mere matter of yachts, and also by the popular demand for victory.

STOWAWAY, FIRST CLASS

The Journal of Commerce (N.Y.)

An unusual type of stowaway was discovered on the White Star liner Doric on a recent voyage from Montreal to Liverpool. The man, who described himself as a university graduate, had mingled with other passengers and managed to avoid detection until the chief officer ordered a certain boat painted. When the canvas cover was removed it was found that the stowaway had made his headquarters there, having brought aboard a pack with enough food to last a week. In addition he had blankets, shaving equipment, a change of clothing, shirts, collars, extra shoes, a small frying pan, a tiny stove and sufficient fuel to last him all the way across. He explained that he had provided the food and equipment because he did not wish to be a burden on the company. Furthermore, he hoped to pay the amount necessary for his ticket on his arrival in England. He was arraigned in court at Liverpool, however, and sentenced to two weeks imprisonment.

A THOUGHT

The condition of salvation is that kind of belief in Jesus Christ which authenticates itself in repentance for the past and an amendment of life for the future.—L. L. Noble.

Twenty-five Years Ago To-day

THE VICTORIA DAILY TIMES, NOVEMBER 6, 1905

Rev. Robert E. Welsh, M.A., the new general secretary of the Canadian Bible Society, who has been sent out from London, England, to help in supervising the work of the society all over the Dominion, arrived in Victoria on Saturday.

The joint meeting between the commission appointed by the Dominion Government to go into the question of the B.C. Fisheries and that appointed by the State of Washington will be held in Seattle on November 9.

Weather forecast—Victoria and vicinity: Northerly and easterly winds, generally fair, with not much change in temperature.

The Victoria pilots are being examined in the office of marine and fisheries department this afternoon.

That this part of Vancouver Island is nothing less than an immense game preserve in which the birds and deer seem to thrive despite the raids made upon them during the open seasons by small armies of sportsmen, must be the opinion of all in the habit of visiting the island. The fact that the deer are so numerous and that the birds are so plentiful is a fact which is not generally known. The deer are so numerous that they are a nuisance to the sportsmen, and the birds are so plentiful that they are a nuisance to the sportsmen.

Loose Ends

The days of fog on land and sea—The evil influences of this column—and a prospect of better things at Blaine.

By H. B. W.

THESE ARE the days of fog, our penalty for a late and glorious autumn, when the warm earth condenses the atmosphere into a dull wall of vapor. (Or at least that is my theory and the theory of Mr. Bill Poole, our neighborhood weather authority.) These are the days when the oak trees out our way stand in their fields, dim and mysterious, like great ghosts in an unreal land, when George Pridmore and his team, ploughing yonder, move across the hillsides like disembodied spirits walking on air, and the wall of the Albert Head foghorn comes through the heavy day infinitely sad and weary.

FOG WITH us on our Island is a familiar thing, and the familiarity, I suppose, has bred some contempt. In the fog off our Island shore these days, I mean, the skippers of coastwise ships are performing some of the most extraordinary miracles of navigation in the history of the sea, and yet we never pay the slightest attention to them. I have been traveling back and forth across the Gulf in fog these twenty years, and I have never found it so depressing as the most depressing sight on the Pacific Highway. It stands amid a huddle of dilapidated houses and its immediate surroundings are vacant lots, overgrown with weeds and rank grass. This monument to the friendship of two great peoples seems to stand, indeed, in the back yard of a little nausated. It is no wonder that photographs of the Peace Arch, such as American papers are publishing just now, invariably are close-ups, with no background shown, and one ingenious picture which is in a certain office in the Parliament Buildings has a faded and gorgeous background, including mighty trees and a great waterfall. A park instead of the present desolation will make the arch a worthwhile monument, although personally I consider it a rather homely slab of concrete, with pleasant inscription, which seem to have come out of copy books for the very young.

ALL THIS is an art indigenous to our coast and not used anywhere else. I am told: It dates back to the earliest days of navigation when there were no fog horns on our shore and a captain had to guess his position as best he could by the returning wall of his whistle. It is something which cannot be taught to young officers, but must be learned through long years in the fog, until in time an echo means as much to a man on the sea as a sign post to traveler on the land. This uncanny business is going on every day and every night a few miles from our shore and yet, actually read it occasionally, we have a grievance against the weather man, and against our private weather prophet, Mr. Poole, when we have trouble keeping our cars on the road. Next time you lie sleepless in your bunk as you cross the Gulf, and softly curse the fog from above you, think on these things; remember that your life, and many other lives, perhaps equally valuable, depend on the ability of one man to read an echo as you would read a sign post. Then perhaps you will sleep better; or perhaps not.

IT WILL BE necessary, I find, to exercise more caution in this column. To my distress I have learned that some of the young actually read it occasionally. I suppose I might have suspected this, since I have long held that the rising generation, like every other rising generation in history, should be viewed with alarm and suspicion. I did not suspect it, however, until Mrs. Glumby came over to-day very agitated, and when Mrs. Glumby is agitated, my friends, is real agitation. Mrs. Glumby was agitated over my few innocent remarks about Halliwell, and the remark of my own girlhood on Halliwell's long ago. Apparently Mrs. Glumby's two grandsons, who live over the hill, had somehow got hold of the vicious column in question and read it with avidity. (They are, bad boys, anyway, and I have always predicted a dismal career for them).

HAVING ABSORBED all the information contained in this column, they proceeded to put it into execution. Thus inspired, they nailed a biscuit can to a stick, filled it with leaves, leaned it against Mrs. Glumby's front door and rang the bell. When Mrs. Glumby opened the door his leaves fell all over her green hall rug, with the red room in the centre, just as they used to fall into various people's halls on our street when I was very young. These same young rascals, inspired by this column, removed Mr. Whifferton's gate and stretched a wire between the gate posts instead, and when Mr. Whifferton walked against it he almost cut himself in two across the middle. And they also fastened Mr. Beak's door bell with a pin so that it rang for half an hour until Mr. Beak got out of bed and staggered upon the veranda in his blue-striped nightgown. All this Mrs. Glumby told me in a condition bordering on hysteria and with all her h's missing, and she added: "But the worst of it is that these young scoundrels say they like what you write in the newspapers! They've tasted of the evil and they're going to keep on a reading of it. Why man, you're corrupting of the neighborhood that's yours!"

promised Mrs. Glumby that I would be more discreet in future, and I ex-

WHAT A RELIEF it is to read in the newspapers that a park of

HUDSON'S BAY SINGERS PLEASE BIG AUDIENCE

Glee Club Presents Fine Programme at Shrine Auditorium

Youngest Victoria Choral Body Makes Favorable Impression

By G. J. D.

The first appearance of the Hudson's Bay Employees' Association Glee Club last evening at the Shrine Auditorium has a vocal significance of its own. The club is recruited from the staff of the Hudson's Bay Company—a practice that has been in vogue in later years connected with the daily operations of the big industrial manufacturing, and business institutions in the large music centres in almost every country.

Such musical organizations have been found mutually beneficial, co-operative, and creating a delightful camaraderie between managers and employees. This club has been in existence since last March only, and in this sense can be reckoned as the youngest choral body, now about to take its place in the musical annals of the city's history. It is only natural, therefore, that much interest has been created in its formation, and throughout the entire programme there were prolonged and enthusiastic manifestations of enjoyment from one of the largest audiences this season.

CLUB'S MEMBERSHIP

The club has forty singing members, with a slight preponderance of female voices, the honors for the moment going to the soprano section, and is under the efficient direction of Joseph Maquire, who can be congratulated upon the excellent showing of his forces in the short space of a little over eight months.

The programme, varied and well-selected, consisted of twenty-one numbers, ten of which were in the hands of the club, the remainder being divided between the newly-organized male quartette, styled, "Garden City Quartette," Isabelle Crawford, soprano; and George Tate, violinist; the latter two already well-known to local concert platforms. All these are also members of the "Bay's" staff.

While the present is not the time for extended notice—future performances will give greater opportunities—nothing but praise can now be bestowed upon all concerned. The city, too, is the richer in the club's "arrival" and like other choral organizations of the capital city, will, no doubt, in future days gain an acknowledged standing in local musical activities.

Naturally, in such a catholic programme, some numbers found greater favor than others, and among the favored ones were the opening number, Cowen's "Bridal Chorus" from "The Rose Maiden," J. B. McEwen's "Vivale and Fugue," "Let Me the Canakin Clink," the third verse of which had to be repeated; J. S. Ford's "Ding-a-Ling-a-Ling," which was repeated, these being particularly good and distinct; Burleigh's two negro spirituals, "Dig My Grave" and "Deep River"; "The Battle of St. Michael's Tower" (Knyvett Stewart), another favorite, the club responding to the prevailing enthusiasm with "Love's Old Sweet Song," many of the audience humming the well-known old refrain, and the concluding number, "Greeting to Spring," a choral setting of the Blue Danube waltz. In rendering these there were some splendid choral moments, especially in "The Battle of St. Michael's Tower," in which the ensemble was the more perfect, and the rhythmic effects being quite well maintained.

ISABELLE CRAWFORD AND GEORGE TATE

Isabelle Crawford as usual proved her sterling vocal accomplishments. Her voice, of pure and beautiful quality, was very effective in her two groups, "Songs My Mother Taught Me" (Dvorak) and "Piper of Love" (M. Carew), to which a compelling demand brought the extra, "Life" (Pearl Curran), and the second group, Mendelssohn's "On Wings of Music" and "Sing Joyous Bird," by M. P. Phillips, sung with capital conception, again the young singer, having to respond, giving in good style Terry's "The Answer."

George Tate plays well. His tone is warm, his left hand sure, and there is no disputing his natural gift of rhythmic. He received a flattering reception, and in response to the demands of his listeners, after his two numbers, "Farewell to Cuculain," a transcription by Kreisler, and "Even-song" (Easthope Martin), gave a Spanish dance, which also had to be repeated.

The accompanists of the evening were Margaret Stewart, accompanying the Glee Club, and the young violinist, Grace Allen, who was heard for the first time in her admirable accompanying to Isabelle Crawford; and Mrs. Maquire, who accompanied the male quartette. All these were handed bouquets, as was Miss Crawford. George Tate also received a token.

WOMAN APPEALS MINIMUM WAGE ACT CONVICTION

Mr. Justice Gregory Quashes Fine Against Vancouver Restaurant Proprietor

Vancouver, Nov. 6.—Expressing the opinion that for all the court knew the work might have been performed within the hours fixed by the Minimum Wage Act, Mr. Justice Gregory in the B.C. Supreme Court quashed a conviction against Mrs. E. Brearley, managing director of Coffee Ann Limited, Robson Street, for an infraction of the statute.

Mrs. Brearley was convicted and fined $25 in police court by Magistrate G. H. McQueen of a charge that she employed a woman in the kitchen of the restaurant for longer hours than the maximum of forty-eight hours a week which had been fixed by the Minimum Wage Board. The employee, it was alleged by the prosecution, was subject to regulations dealing with public housekeeping occupations which came into force on August 16, 1919.

The evidence disclosed that the hours of the cook were not fixed, but were left in her own discretion, provided she got through the work for which she was paid $25 a week.

The contract was not for a specified number of hours, but rather a contract to do certain things, pointed out Mr. Justice Gregory, which for all the court knew might have been performed in the hours fixed by the statute.

In recording a conviction, the magistrate came to a wrong determination, said His Lordship.

SHOWER HELD BY INSTITUTE

Lighthouses to Receive Hamper of Gifts From Connaught Institute

The large hall of the Victoria Connaught Seamen's Institute was filled Tuesday afternoon with members and friends of the institute, on the occasion of the annual birthday tea and shower for the lighthouses. Mrs. Alice Thompson, president, and Mrs. R. W. Sayer, secretary, received the guests, and tea was served at small tables about the hall which presented a festive appearance with the wealth of autumn flowers and foliage, and the attractive display of books, magazines, toys, smokes, playing cards, and innumerable other gifts, many of which were anonymous, and for which as for all the others the committee was most grateful.

The woolies sent in by the knitters to the convener of the wool committee, Mrs. M. F. Minnis, included 100 pairs of socks, thirty-five jerseys and many helmets, scarves and many other articles. Those largely responsible for this supply, which will be used for the benefit of needy sailors throughout the year, as well as for gifts in the lighthouse boxes which will be packed to-day are Mrs. Loudoun, Mrs. Dunford, Miss Eam. Mrs. Baker, Mrs. Sinnott, Mrs. J. Fraser, Mrs. Greenway, Mrs. Mitchell, Mrs. Froby, Mrs. Shorrock, Miss Bate, Mrs. H. Wall, Mrs. Symons, Mrs. Ward, Miss Hemming, Mrs. A. Angus, Mrs. Freeman, Miss Pooley, Mrs. Sutcliffe, Mrs. Buckle, Mrs. W. A. Turner, Miss Crossman, Mrs. Murray, Mrs. Ashie, Mrs. Robinson, and many others whose names were not included with packages.

Mrs. E. Vernon Thompson and Mrs. W. McManus, assisted by Mrs. Finmore and Miss Blanche Ebbes-Canavan, served tea.

A fine musical programme was presented, Madame Claudet having arranged musical numbers by Major Wata, Madame Claudet, and Mr. James McGrath.

Mrs. W. R. Sayer, on behalf of the president and members of the institute, thanked the artists, the guests and the generous donors of gifts, for the pleasure of the afternoon. She said 119 ships had been visited; 119 free meals had been given; 207 beds provided; and a total of 7,094 men and 206 apprentice boys had registered and made use of privileges of the institute during the past twelve months.

Mrs. Alice Thompson, the president, also thanked the Mayor and all who assisted in the success of the afternoon.

Among the guests were Mrs. J. W. Troup, whose early efforts for the Seamen's Institute are a matter of history; Mrs. C. D. Neroutos, Mrs. A. W. Wilby, Mrs. Hardeman, Miss Crease, Miss J. Crease, Mrs. Blenkinsop, Mrs. R. E. McMillen, Mrs. Hebdon Gillespie, Mrs. E. Tyndal Drake, Mr. and Miss Ravelhill, Mrs. James, Mrs. Harris, Mrs. E. Healy Kerr, Miss Thompson, Miss Barbara Fielding, Miss L. M. Brown, Miss Robinson, the Misses Woolridge, Mrs. Ebbes-Canavan, Mrs. B. B. Mosher, who had at her table the following guests: Dr. and Mrs. C. McAllister, England; Mr. John Spinks, Colonel Harrison, Mr. Stuart Bruce, Captain W. N. Hotham, Mrs. Dorsey and Mrs. Barrett; Mrs. Cook and Mrs. Day, Mr. and Mrs. James Dean, Mr. and Mrs. White, Mr. Sinclair, Mr. and Mrs. Greenway and Mrs. Quigley.

In the unavoidable absence of Mrs. J. Gordon Smith, treasurer, Mrs. M. F. Minnis acted in her place for the afternoon.

Quiet Wedding Is Solemnized At St. John's

A quiet wedding took place yesterday evening at 8:30 o'clock at St. John's Church when Rev. Canon F. P. Chadwick united in marriage, Joan Lankelly, eldest daughter of Mrs. L. Harris, Belmont Avenue, and the late Mr. Charles N. Harris, and Mr. Martin John MacDonald, second son of Mr. and Mrs. MacDonald of New Waterford, Nova Scotia.

Given in marriage by Mr. R. Gliddon of Keating, the bride made a pretty picture in her wedding gown, a French model of white georgette, fashioned with simplicity. Her wedding veil of soft tulle was arranged on her head in cap shape and held in place with a circlet of orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of pink roses and carnations. She was attended by her sister, Miss Kathleen Harris, who wore a frock of blue silk crepe, with felt hat to match and carried a sheaf of pink and white chrysanthemums. Mr. Kenneth Ryves supported the groom. The wedding marches were played by the organist of St. John's, Mr. J. Jennings Burnett. Mr. and Mrs. MacDonald left on the midnight boat for Vancouver, where for a time they will make their home. For traveling the bride chose a dress of cinnamon-brown silk crepe, with sports overcoat and hat to match.

Among the gifts of Sir Rowland Hodge to his bride, who was the Countess of Cathcart, was a pearl, a limousine, two fur coats, a gold-fitted dressing case and some exquisite jewelry.

YOUR BABY and MINE

USE OF PROFANE WORDS NATURAL STAGE OF CHILDHOOD

There is a particular age at which children experiment in the use of all kinds of words. When the child goes out to play, sometimes even before that, he hears words used by adults which will become his childish lingo. In our diligent efforts to end the use of such words we are inclined to do just the things that encourage instead of discourage them.

If the word is a good one, we applaud its use; if it is a "swear" word, we become highly excited, tremendously upset, and highly demonstrative. "Where on earth did you hear that word? Now march right upstairs and wash out your mouth with soap. That horrid, horrid word has dirtied your sweet little mouth."

MOTHER'S REACTION ALL-IMPORTANT

Of course, soap isn't pleasant, but the impression made upon the child by his mother's actions are far more lasting than the taste of the soap. He finds that a cannon cracker in his mother's ear is mild compared with his use of a good round "damn." Why should we act in a manner that will cause the child to repeat the word for the sake of its impression upon us, when we really want to stop his using it?

One young man of six was an ardent user of swear words. In fact he used them so constantly that the horrified neighbors refused to allow him to play with their children. Naturally, his mother made every effort to end the habit. She scolded, she shamed, she threatened, and spanked, but he could not be trusted. The more emphasis she laid upon the desirability of never, never saying such things, the more frequently he said them.

One day he was invited to a party. His mother told the hostess frankly, "Now you send him home the very minute he says a bad word. I won't be hurt at all. He just must be punished." So off he went bright and shining, and a half hour later he was back again. Without one word of questioning his irate mother took him over her knee and administered a sound spanking. Then she marched him upstairs to bed, and as she closed the door and he got his breath he said, between sobs, "The darn party ain't till next week."

PROPER TREATMENT

Why should parents keep on using methods which prove so useless? The very moment that a child begins using words that are not for children's lips, say quietly, "You must talk with words that you understand. You don't know the meaning of this word and so it is silly to use it." Pretend indifference, or even actual lack of understanding of what he says. The word then, no matter what it is, becomes meaningless to the child. If some other child uses it, tell your child that he doesn't know what he is talking about. He is a little boy using words that adults use and not knowing what they mean.

Don't get excited about the word. Don't do anything dramatic like washing a mouth out with soap. All such methods simply make the word that much more attractive, that much more thrilling to use, and just habit, does the rest. Without even wanting to, or meaning to, a word like that becomes fixed in the child's language. Don't let it.

Funeral Friday Of Aged Woman Found Dead

Funeral services will be held on Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Sands Funeral Chapel for the late Mrs. Mary Anna Wood, widow of Edward E. Wood and a resident of Gordon Road for forty-five years, who was found dead at her home, at 204 Head Road, South, on Sunday afternoon.

The late Mrs. Wood was born in Southampton, England, eighty years ago. She lived alone at her residence and as she had not been seen since Friday last, the Sancho police were notified and found the aged woman's body in a sitting posture at the side of her bed, suggesting that she had collapsed as she was about to retire for the night. No inquest will be held as death was from natural causes.

The late Mrs. Wood is survived by one son, William A. Wood, connected with the coastguard in the United States; one daughter, Mrs. C. Ridge; and two great-grandchildren.

What infinite relief to know that Kotex deodorizes

DAINTINESS makes one important demand which some women overlook. And Kotex answers that demand. It deodorizes, by a special process, as it is worn. And Kotex gives you too—the relief that comes with safe protection. It is filled, you know, with Cellucotton (not cotton) absorbent wadding. This is a cellulose substance which, for sanitary purposes, fulfills the same function as cotton but with 5 times the absorbency. In world-famous hospitals, where health protection is doubly vital, this very same absorbent is used today, so its superiority and safety are unquestioned for your use.

THE SPORTS MIRROR

RUMBLINGS of another "Battle of the Palms" are being heard along the fifth row of New York and Young Streets, where the "key man" for any successful winter venture under the palms at Miami yet it has not been deemed safe to try out William at this time on the fans of Gotham. Perhaps the moguls of Madison Square Garden, which is nowhere near Madison Square, any more, have too vivid a recollection of the extreme sour impression that Strickling left in his last performance or two in Manhattan rings.

The six hundred millionaires, the financial power behind the Garden, will no doubt be mighty careful before they agree to this year's fight at Miami. The two ventures of the Garden in staging fights at this Florida resort have not been what might be called any too successful. Two years ago Sharkey and Strickling were matched for the first "Battle of the Palms" by the late Tex Rickard. The latter started his usual bally-hoo of the bout and then came his sudden death, leaving the Garden with the approaching fight on its hands.

William Carey, with the able assistance of Jack Dempsey, took it upon himself to put over the show which he did even if he was not so successful. Last year Sharkey met Phil Scott and this bout ended in a frost. Sharkey winning by a knockout, with Scott claiming a foul. It has been pretty definitely stated by many other noted characters since that the Brittoner hit low. This fight soured a great many of the fans and the Garden will have to put on a bout with good drawing power if they wish to retain the attendance of the faithful this year. And remember they have no Tex Rickard to spread the bally-hoo.

Then again there is the managerial problem facing the Garden at the present time. Frank Bruen has resigned his position as successor to Rickard to resume the management of the Hialeah race track at Florida. Several men prominent in the boxing world have been rumored as successors to Bruen but no definite appointment has been made. Whoever takes Bruen's place will have a sweet task as a beginner to put over the show at Miami.

Several more crack thoroughbreds have been secured for the $140,000 Agua Caliente Handicap, the world's richest race, to be held at Agua Caliente on March 22. Sun Best, two time Hawthorne Cup winner, is regarded as the best weight packer among the all aged division, will be among the competitors. Pigeon Pie, five-year-old gelding by the French stud, Hollister, out of Pigeon Pie, considered one of the stoutest handicap warriors in the Chicago-Kentucky sector, will also be a contender.

Max Schmeling is coming over in December, says Joe Jacobs. Well, well! Very interesting!

Those Boston Braves look to be headed for the first division next year with the addition of Wes Schumacher and Earl Sheely-Bill McKechnie is surely building the team up.

New records are being established by the boxers these days. The records are being broken every day for non-attendance.

A fighter just in from Cuba calls himself Kid Bon Bon. Another Cuban in our midst is Kid Chocolate. We asked O'Stoody for some kind of a wisecrack about that, and all he said was, "Oh, dude!"

Notre Dame and the Army play in Chicago this year. But that town won't mind. The people there are used to the sight of blood.

Ray Miller, Chicago's left-hook artist of the lightweight ranks, has made more than $250,000 in the ring, but business ventures took most of it from him. Twice Miller retired, first to go into the shoe business and again in the dress suit business, but each time he came back to the ring to build up his bank account.

The thing that makes Miller the left-hook artist that he is, lies in the construction of his hand, declared Jim Corbett. Miller has a square fist, according to Corbett, with every knuckle even across his hand.

SWIMMERS PREPARE FOR GALA

Y.M.C.A. Championship Aquatic Meet to Be Held in Crystal Garden Nov. 29

Local Club Has Strong Squad Lined Up For B.C. Titles; Mailing Entries

Executive members of the Y.M.C.A. Swimming Club yesterday evening definitely set November 29 as the date for their gala and made arrangements to mail entry forms to Vancouver and other outside clubs for the event. The complete programme was also ratified by the gathering. It will include three British Columbia championships and eleven other events.

As a special attraction a fine silver bowl has been presented by His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor for the person scoring the highest points in four events in the men's division. A similar trophy is being offered for the girls.

With every good race on the list of events, the swimmers are expected to be able to repel the challenge of any outsiders who may come over for the gala.

Inquiries have been received from Vancouver for the event and it is hoped that some entries may be posted from that city in the championships the local Y.M.C.A. has lined up a formidable squad. Pat Copeland outstanding woman breast stroke star of the city, is expected to give a good account of herself in her division, while Denny Walker, flashy young all-round swimmer, is counted on to uphold the city's laurels in the backstroke title event.

For the Canadian long tank record, in the diving Allan Stewart, present holder of the British Columbia title, and Art Stott, a former provincial champion, are expected to give a good show and hope to keep the title in the city.

As an additional feature, the club has arranged two relay races, one for men and the other for women, over a 200-yard course. Four school children's races, for boys and girls under fourteen and sixteen years of age, also promise to add to the attractiveness of the programme.

Judging from the showings of some of the aspirants during workouts recently, the Capital City should be able to meet any force that might come across from the mainland and hold its own.

The complete programme for the event follows:

MEN'S EVENTS
Fancy diving, three metre board.
British Columbia championship.
100 yards, back stroke, British Columbia championship.
100 yards, breast stroke.
50 yards, free style.
200 yards, men's relay, four to a team.
50 yards, school boys, free style, under sixteen.
50 yards, school boys, free style, under fourteen.

WOMEN'S EVENTS
Fancy Diving, one metre board.
100 yards, back stroke, British Columbia championship.
50 yards, breast stroke.
50 yards, free style.

Bercot Wins a Close Decision From Jack Spaw

Bellingham, Wash., Nov. 6.—Dode Bercot, Whidbey Island, won a close decision over Arizona Jack Spaw, Seattle welterweight, in the main event on the American Legion card here yesterday evening. Both men put on an exhibition of clever boxing, with few punishing blows being landed.

Red Tingley, 170 pounds, took a hard-fought decision from Bucky Harris, Seattle, in the semi-final round.

Harry Williams, Bellingham, was given the decision over Buddy Bercot, Seattle welterweight, in a four-round special event.

Managing Director Conny Smith, who has this year signed over the coaching duties to the big smiling defender, Art Duncan, made one of the surprise deals of the trading season when he swapped two players and $35,000 in cash for Frank "King" Glancy, dynamic defenceman, formerly with the Ottawa Senators. Purchase of Glancy not only strengthened the rear guard but will also provide the Leafs with additional speed.

Rated one of the best defencemen of all time, Glancy will team up on the defence with another speed artist, Clarence "Happy" Day, who has been with the Leafs since turning professional. The pair will form one of the fastest rear guards in the league.

Just who will do the net-minding duties for the locals is an uncertainty yet. If, however, youthful Benny Grant, the Owen Sound boy, who played with Minneapolis of the American Association last season, lives up to the expectations of Smythe, it is likely that he will be retained in place of Lorne Chabot, the latter has been with the Leafs since New York Rangers traded him and plenty of cash for John Ross Roach.

Coch Duncan plans to use two forward lines only this season, as he is a firm believer in giving his players plenty to do. The first string line will be composed of Andy Blair at centre, with Ace Bailey and Harold Cotton flanking him. Blair, who experienced an off-season last year, and who has been bothered during training by defective teeth, has shown a return to his old form in pre-season exhibition games, much to the pleasure of club officials.

GOOD SECOND LINE
The secondary line should prove just as good as the so-called first string. Youthful, big and fast, Charlie Conacher, Harry Jackson and Joe Primeau, styled the "Marlboro Kid," gained senior experience during the 1929-30 grind and already predictions are being made they will prove the stand-out line of the league.

Cocher was operated on last spring for removal of a kidney, but loss of the organ has not impaired his ability, at least his temperament, judging by his progress since the team took the ice for the first time this year. Just a couple of points less than his more illustrious brother, Lionel, of the Montreal Maroons.

ONLY TWO UTILITY MEN
Only two utility players will be carried by the Leafs, if present plans are carried through. The Leaf mentor did not try out many recruits during the training season, despite the loss of Art Smith and Eric Pettinger in the deal for Glancy. Smith, an aggressive defenceman, has been replaced by "Red" Horner, another Marlboro product, who will do all the relief work on the defence. "Shrimp" McPherson, who has played in various minor professional leagues since deserting the simon pure here some years ago, will likely be used as relief performer on both front lines.

Bonn Muir to Meet Husky Oklahoman in Feature Bout on Wrestling Card

Charlie Strack, husky Oklahoman wrestler, who last week gained a draw with Charlie Hansen of Seattle and defeated Bob Kruse the week previous, will be seen in action against a new opponent here Saturday evening when he clashes with Bonn Muir, Australian grappler, at the Tillicum Gymnasium.

Muir's appearance here will be the first of a series of fixtures in which the Antipodean will meet the wrestlers of the Pacific northwest. Little is known of his calibre, but he will have to put up a good showing to go the distance.

In the semi-final Desmond Anderson of Seattle and Jack McLaughlin, Vancouver, will test their grips, holds and throws.

One preliminary will open the card.

Canadiens Flash Great Speed to Win Charity Ice Battle

Montreal, Nov. 6.—In a fast exhibition game yesterday evening, Canadiens National Hockey League champions, defeated Providence, titleholders of the Canadian-American League, by 8 goals to 4. The match brought out mid-season speed on the part of the world champions as Morens, Joliat, Sylvio Mantha and Pete Lepine flashed their wares and the youngsters of the Canadiens.

The game, played in the cause of charity, attracted about 6,500 people, equals within seven minutes.

LOCAL BOXERS FEATURED ON FIGHT CARD

Victoria Boys Taking Part in Show This Evening at Variety Theatre

Keist, Drysdale, Hay and Neal Are Appearing in Two Main Events

Featuring local fighters in every one of the five bouts Joe Bayley will present a boxing card at the Variety Theatre to-night. Features of the show are the two six-round main events with Tim Keist meeting Tommy Drysdale and Frankie Neal fighting Wing Hay.

In the first bout of the evening Dave Barr meets Billy Bloomfield, over four rounds. Barr is favored to win the decision by a fair margin of points. He appears to be a little too clever for Bloomfield.

Danny Pastore tackles Wilfred Shoultice at four rounds. Shoultice should cop the decision, although Pastore will be a tough fighter to win from, and should give his rangy opponent a lot of worry. If Danny connects with one of his hefty left swings, Shoultice will probably take the count.

Tommy Drysdale and Tim Keist should put on a very closely contested bout. Drysdale is picked to win a close decision. Both boys are very fast and use a good variety of punches, and this contest should produce some fast and clever hitting.

PICKS WING HAY
The meeting of Frankie Neal and Wing Hay is arousing much interest, with the heavy hitting Chinese fighter the favorite. Neal can take punishment, and seems capable of weathering what should be a tough six-round season. Frankie is unquestionably the cleverest fighter of the two, but Wing's aggressive style and heavier hitting ability is expected to win him the decision.

Dave Lewis, formerly one of the best fighters in this city, will act as third man in the ring.

The battle royal in which five husky newboys will compete will be the first event on the programme, starting at 8:45 o'clock.

Toronto Leafs Defeat London In Exhibition

For two periods, Roy Brothers' Tecumsehs were the stronger, but in the last period the Leafs cut loose and scored three goals within seven minutes.

GENE DENIES CHARGES IN DAMAGE SUIT

Former Heavyweight Champ Denies Late Tex Rickard Made Him Champ

Contradicts Statement of Tim Mara Seeking to Obtain $500,000 Damages

New York, Nov. 6.—Having given the late Tex Rickard credit for making him heavyweight champion, Gene Tunney resumed to-day his testimony in defence of the suit in which Timothy J. Mara, sports promoter, is seeking $500,000 of Tunney's earnings.

He testified yesterday Rickard had promised in July, 1925, to make him champion of the world. That was a year before the drawing of the contract which Mara claims he made agreeing to give him 10 per cent of his earnings from the first fight with Jack Dempsey and 25 per cent of what he earned as champion.

"I can make you champion of the world if you will string along with me," Tunney quoted Rickard as saying. Tunney said he agreed and they shook hands across the table.

"When I left I had a gentleman's agreement with Rickard to fight Dempsey," Tunney testified.

REVIEWS CAREER
He reviewed his career from the time he was a $5 a week errand boy, boxing evenings for the fun of it, through his war experiences, when as a member of the Marine Corps he became lightweight champion of the world, to his present position as a contender for the championship.

Tunney contradicted Mara's testimony that the latter had arranged for his bout with Tom Gibbons in 1925, saying he signed for that bout with Charles A. Stoneham. He also testified Rickard had offered him $200,000 to fight Harry Wills, a fight Mara said he had tried to arrange.

The defence claims Mara was engaged to clear the way with the New York Boxing Commission to hold the first Tunney-Dempsey fight, this state, and in failing to do that was not entitled to the money he is seeking.

Take Injunction Against Brydson

London, Nov. 6.—Manager Roy Brothers of London Tecumsehs, International Hockey League team, announced yesterday he will take out an injunction in several states, where the outlaw American league will operate, to prevent Gordon Brydson, holdout right winger of the local club, from playing with the Chicago Shamrocks of the American League. Brydson is reported to have signed a contract with the Shamrocks.

The Brydson case recalls that of Harvie Lewis, now a member of Detroit, N.H.L. team. Lewis once jumped his contract with Duluth, an outlaw league, and was out on an injunction which was upheld and Lewis was soon back in Duluth.

Harmony Flash Fine Form To Win Over Blue Ribbon Girls

Spring Season's Biggest Upset by 19 to 15 Victory Over Provincial Senior "B" Champions in City League Hoop Game at High School Gym Yesterday Evening; The Times Defeat Royal Oak 26 to 13 For Third Straight Victory; Basket in Final Minute Gives West Road Win Over Sons of Canada.

Playing inspired basketball, Bob Whyte's Harmony hoopers handed the Blue Ribbon five, Provincial Senior "B" champions, their first defeat of the year, when they came out on the long end of a 19 to 15 score. The winners were clearly superior throughout the game, but it was not until the final five minutes of play they took a lead that was at all safe.

In the other two games played The Times defeated Royal Oak 26 to 13, and West Road won a hard fought fixture from the Sons of Canada, 8 to 16.

The women's game started out at a terrific pace, and at the half way mark the Harmony were leading 9 to 6. This lead came as the result of team play, as the Sunday School girls were working for an easy shot.

The second half opened with the Blue Ribbon putting on a spirited rush and three quick baskets gave them the lead for the first time in the game. For the next eight minutes the teams battled hard, and with the situation becoming more tense every moment, play began to get rough. Alan Lemarquand, the referee, soon stopped this, and after he had sent two players from each side off on four personal fouls the teams settled down to play basketball. With three minutes left to go, the Blue Ribbon five still held a lead, being on the long end of a 13 to 10 count. Alice Lalonde, diminutive forward for Harmony, was given two pretty passes underneath the hoop, and she connected into baskets, while she also added one free throw. Just after this final score the whistle sounded to give the Harmony five a fine win.

Both teams turned in great performances, and it would not be fair to pick out an individual star, but Ben Peden of the Blue Ribbons was the leading scorer of the game, counting nine points.

The teams and individual scorers follow:
Harmony—J. Alexander, A. Lalonde, S. M. Peden, E. Matthews, B. Macmurchie, S. M. Hall and B. Armstrong.
Blue Ribbon—B. Peden, T. Rennie, R. Bethel, S. M. Wilson, J. Edwards, D. Lea, L. B. Boyce and C. Atherton.

THE TIMES WIN
Opening up with all their offensive forces in the first half The Times handed Royal Oak a bad defeat in the senior "C" game. This win makes the third straight that the newbies have turned in, and they look to be one of the strongest five in this division.

In the opening half, the Royal Oak five managed to keep the fast travelling evening newspaper five in check fairly well, and at half time the winners only held a five point lead. The final twenty minutes of play saw The Times run away with their opponents, scoring practically at will.

The teams and individual scorers follow:
Royal Oak—Robbins, I. Spencer, B. W. Robbins, G. Crowell, T. Godtel, Scruton and Blanco.
The Times—Blasell, J. Webster, J. Fish, B. Taylor, B. Paulson, Mitchell and Poulbrier.

West Road came as close to getting defeated as they ever will without actually losing, as it was not until the final five minutes of play, when the Scns were forced to play with four men, that the suburbanites came through to win. The Sons forced the issue throughout, and until they lost Nicol and John Taylor on personals they were the leading team. Clarence Suggest, who scored ten points, counted the basket that kept West Road undefeated when there was but one minute left to play.

Three goals down the Saanich eleven attacked with vengeance, and Bobby Burns drove a long shot on the Navy goal. Porteous made the save, but turned around in close proximity to Johnson blew his whistle for a goal. The Navy protested the decision, but after consulting the linesmen the referee stuck by his decision. Half-time found no change in the score.

Starting the second half Saanich took up the offensive and Porteous was given a warm time blocking shots from all angles. Saanich made matters interesting when Burns grabbed the same player completed a fine combination rush with his second goal. A few minutes before half-time Robinson completed his feat by taking a corner from Edwards from right wing to place the ball in the Saanich net.

The Navy opened play at a fast clip, and the match had only been under way ten minutes when Robinson booted home his first goal, beating Restall from in close proximity to the goal. The Navy's fourth and final counter was a three-point margin over the Garrison.

Collegians To Make Decision On Union Request

Consider Proposal They Take Place In Senior League

Provincial Intermediate Champions Will Hold Session to Decide Whether or Not They Will Play Remainder of Season in Senior League; Oak Bay Wanderers Throw Bombshell by Threatening to Place Senior Team in Minor League; Senior Schedule Released.

Whether or not Victoria College, crack intermediate rugby champions of the city and province, will swing into play in higher company this season, in compliance with a request from the Victoria Rugby Union, will be decided to-morrow, when the student players meet to decide the issue, it was announced to-day at the college. The Collegians have gone through three seasons without suffering a single defeat and appear to be able to repeat this year. At the meeting of the rugby union yesterday evening, a resolution was drawn up asking the students to switch into the higher league. It was followed by a bomb dropped by A. Morton that the Wanderers' senior team would be withdrawn from the higher company and play in the intermediate league if the College did not acquiesce. He justified his announcement by stating that the College players were far too strong for the company in which they are playing.

ALPHA CLUB PLAYERS WIN BADMINTON

Defeat First United Team Nine Matches to Five Yesterday Evening

In a badminton match played yesterday evening at the First United Church, members of the Alpha Club scored a victory over the United players by a score of nine matches to five.

In the women's doubles the Alpha Club won two out of the three matches. They increased their lead in the men's doubles by taking three of the four matches, while in the mixed doubles they captured four of the seven matches.

At the college to-day there were mixed feelings. A percentage of the boys wish to go into the senior league, where they figure their ability might be up to the standard of the other squads. Others maintain that the College team is too light to make the switch and would rather see the first team playing together in the intermediate section.

PLAYER RESTRICTIONS
In order to clear the atmosphere to some extent regarding the calibre of men on the team, J. H. Ketchen at yesterday's rugby meeting moved that if the College remained in the intermediate league, its team be restricted to bona fide students at the school. And a proposal by Horace Goad, was to the effect that if the school entered higher company, the selection of its players should be unrestricted. Both were carried. At present College is playing two old boys.

To further induce the Collegians to turn to the senior league, the meeting passed a motion proposed by R. A. Akey which stated that no Victoria "rep" team men might be chosen from the intermediate league for McKeehan Cup team. This motion eliminates any Collegians from making the rep squad unless they are playing senior rugby.

WANT BETTER FINANCIAL GRANT
During the meeting the Victoria Rugby Union endorsed a letter drawn up by V. L. Denton, president, seeking a larger proportion of McKeehan Cup game proceeds for this city. He suggested that all gate money in Victoria and Vancouver be pooled. After expenses had been met he would like to see the sum divided in a 3-2-1 basis for Vancouver, Victoria and Varsity.

Under the present system the Vancouver squad received far more from Victoria for games here than the Capital does from Vancouver for matches in the Terminal City. It was pointed out.

Meanwhile the local union has gone ahead with plans for the first half of the season, and the senior schedule, including the senior Wanderers in the league.

"Red" Teller Is Suspended For His Misconduct on Field

Montreal, Que., Nov. 6.—No definite action has been taken by the rugby officials concerning the suspension of Red Teller, snap-back of the Montreal Amateur Athletic Association's big four squad, for his alleged misconduct in the game against Arzonais last Saturday in Toronto. Teller is said to have aimed a blow at Eddie O'Meara, head line-man of the game, because of a decision which O'Meara made which Teller thought unfair.

A telegram was received by the Winged Wheelers officials here yesterday from Toronto advising the club to prepare a new snap-back for this Saturday's game. No further details were given other than the fact that a letter would be sent explaining the situation fully.

LEVINSKY TO MEET FORMER WORLD CHAMP

Terrific Puncher From Chicago Ranks Favorite Over Jimmy Slattery

Levinsky Has Beaten Leo Lomski and Tom Kirby; Von Porat Meets Renault

Chicago, Nov. 6.—Just how much fire there is behind the smoke of King Levinsky's rush to the front ranks of the light-heavyweights will be determined to-night when he trades punches with the veteran Jimmy Slattery of Buffalo in a ten-round battle at Chicago Stadium.

The fight between a good boxer in Slattery and a terrific puncher in Levinsky, easily captured the interest of fans away from another ten-round feature between Otto Von Porat of Chicago and the battle-scarred Jack Renault of Canada.

Levinsky, who stopped Tom Kirby of Boston and Leo Lomski of Aberdeen, Washington, in his last two surprising starts, ranks as a slight favorite over the former light-heavyweight champion.

Von Porat, making his second comeback since his one-round knockout by Young Strubling in the same arena, expected a lot of trouble with Renault.

OLD FORESTER SHOWS GROWTH OF ORDER HERE

J. J. Wilson, For Fifty-seven Years Member of Court Vancouver, Tells of Development

Local Branch Celebrates
Fifty-eighth Anniversary
With Big Banquet

The growth of the Ancient Order of Foresters from a nucleus of ten energetic men to its present membership of 1,400 in Victoria, was sketched by J. J. Wilson, P.C.R., before a large gathering of the order at its fifty-eighth anniversary gathering in the A.O.F. Hall yesterday evening. Mr. Wilson, a man of eighty years, fifty-seven of which he has spent in active participation in matters pertaining to Court Vancouver, 5755, spoke of the inception of the lodge here and traced its development to its present strength.

During the evening, Mayor Anson responded to a toast to the City of Victoria and Alderman James Adam proposed one to the order. Many other toasts were proposed during the programme, which was interspersed with vocal and instrumental selections as well as dancing.

Opening his remarks, Mr. Wilson stressed the fact that all members were brothers and sisters working along similar lines for their mutual benefit. In 1871 and 1872 a small group of men, some former Foresters from Great Britain, had conceived the idea of forming a lodge with a view to forming a branch of the order here. He had, as a young man, attended several of the meetings and had been very favorably impressed by the objectives of the organization.

He spoke of the men who had constituted a committee to go further into the matter and secure information from the English headquarters regarding the formation of a Victoria court.

STARTED IN 1873
Despite delays caused by the mail system, the Victoria lodge received their charter and full regalia by 1873 and had set to work to draw up a constitution which, though modeled along the lines of the parent organization included clauses to suit local conditions.

He, unfortunately, was not in Victoria for the opening of the local lodge and therefore missed his charter membership. Nevertheless, he had joined immediately upon his return to the city, about two months after the lodge was in operation.

He recalled the times when the branch met in an office in what is now the Turner Beaton Building, moving later to Government Street premises, and noting that after occupying many other quarters it had eventually built its own clubroom. It was one of the proudest moments of his life, he continued, to be able to speak to the gathering in the splendid hall since he had been working on committees for forty years attempting to get permanent quarters for the order.

CITY STANDING UP WELL
Replying to the toast to the City of Victoria, Mayor Herbert Anson stated that he was fully aware the city was passing through a situation which apart from the Great War, had never been equalled here. Trade was suffering from a depression, but Victoria, not being a manufacturing centre, was not affected as greatly from the general unemployment crisis as other towns of Canada. He again voiced the opinion that the city's greatest asset was its tourist and residential worth and impressed upon the gathering that it never could be a big industrial centre.

In his toast to the city, W. F. Fullerton spoke of the work the mayor and council was carrying on and urged his hearers not to criticize them too severely. He digressed to speak of his term as an alderman and then proposed a humorous toast.

MUSICAL PROGRAMME
During the evening delightful musical selections were presented by Bro. James Torrance, P.C.R., Mrs. J. B.

AUSTRIANS HAIL HITLER'S VICTORY

Shaw, John and Esther Pim, Bro. M. Craven, Bros. T. Crabbe, Mossup, Stafford and Townsend, and a cornet quartette under the leadership of C. Rhodes. Mrs. B. E. Lefevre and Mrs. L. Giese. An exhibition of dancing by the pupils of Miss Mona Jewell was greatly appreciated as was a character song by Mrs. Nellie Payne and a recitation by Bro. H. H. Hollins.

A toast to Kindred Societies was proposed by Bro. P. W. Jenkins, P.D.C.R., Court Camosun, and replied to by E. Simpson, District Deputy of the Sons of England.

Another, sponsored by Sister Mrs. E. Ryan, District Treasurer, U.I.D., to the "A.O.P. Joint Social Committee" was replied to by Sister Mrs. M. Townsend, District Deputy, C.D.

Others were proposed by Arthur Manson, chairman of the joint social committee, following his address.

lation charges and for contempt of court growing out of alleged violation of injunctions.

Charges against six Webster County miners were not pressed on agreement of counsel for both sides.

The bombing episode attracted considerable attention, although little damage was done.

Paul Montgomery, Murphysboro, Ill., pilot, and Ward Heckelbeck, Ziegler, Ill., miner, were sentenced to a year and a day each on charges of violating the Air Commerce Act.

ISLAND COAL IS GOOD COAL

AFTER ALL IT'S THE LITTLE "B.T.U.'s" THAT COUNT

A year or so ago, before vitamins became popular, food experts were all talking "calories." Calories are to food what "B.T.U.'s" are to coal... units of heat. The natural heat of the human body is determined by the number of calories supplied by certain foods. Similarly, the amount of heat your furnace develops, depends on the kind of coal you use. The more heat units there are in the coal you use, the warmer your home will be.

It always pays to buy the coal which has the most B.T.U.'s per dollar. Nanaimo-Wellington and Comox Coal actually contain more heat units than any other coal you buy on this market. These Island Coals by chemical analysis show an average of 13,030 B.T.U.'s, where other non-Island grades hardly ever show more than 10,000... often less.

Therefore when you buy Island Coal you are buying more heat per dollar. You are also helping to support one of the major industries of British Columbia and you are doing your share in helping to solve the unemployment problem.

Any one of the dealers listed herewith will guarantee honest weight, honest grading and honest prices.

Always order "Nanaimo-Wellington" or "Comox" Coal. Remember it's the "B.T.U.'s" that count!

STUDENTS VOTE NO CONFIDENCE IN BENNETT

Premier Shows Weakness,
Not Strength in Crisis, Professor Says

Toronto, Nov. 6.—With Professor F. M. Underhill of the history staff of the University of Toronto making the final attack against Premier R. B. Bennett at the Hart House debate, no confidence was voted in the Dominion Government at Ottawa, by the students, 168 to 159.

Declaring that Mr. Bennett did not represent a majority of the people of Canada in his tariff proposals, Prof. Underhill said that by the system of one member one constituency there could not be proportional representation, and the results of the last election did not give Mr. Bennett a sufficient number of votes to entitle him to such an overwhelming majority in parliament.

Professor Underhill said he disagreed with those who talked of Bennett as a strong man. He showed the greatest weakness, the speaker contended, when he placed a heavy duty on glass equal to 147 per cent ad valorem and then, when the price was raised on glass, withdrew it.

"There is a need for reasonable protection, but the protectionists at present seem to have gone insane," he declared, and Liberal cheers.

J. W. Binning of Victoria College, who opened the government argument, stated that every time there was a crisis in Canada the Conservative Party was called upon by the people, as in 1911, and in the last Dominion election. "What has Bennett done in the special session?" Like a flash came back the answer of the opposition benches. "Nothing."

E. B. Jelliffe, opposition leader, said that in the last election more people voted Liberal than Conservative. If Canada is to become an annex to the U.S.A., he said, nothing will effect it more quickly than a high tariff.

He deplored the holding of a club in the form of a threat over the Mother Country, declaring it was taking an unfair advantage of Great Britain. The Imperial Conference is a failure and it is due to no one but Bennett," he said.

G. Gallagher accused the Ferguson Government of improper practices in the last Dominion election.

"Can we have any confidence in a government that allows its henchmen to do as Ferguson did in the last campaign?" he demanded. "The attitude of the Ferguson Government cannot be reconciled with high ideals anywhere. There are still traces of the Tory machine in Toronto."

Brentwood

The Saanich Board of Trade met Monday evening at the Institute Hall, when John Dean, of Victoria, gave an interesting address on the advantages of irrigation and domestic water systems of which he had made a thorough study during his recent world tour. He mentioned that in Egypt it was now possible to grow three crops annually, due to irrigation. Mr. Dean offered to put up a cheque for $1,000 of the $1,500 required to get data from a firm of consulting engineers in England, if Saanich would be willing to consider the scheme. A deputation will wait on the Saanich Council on the question.

MR. ZERO OFFERS "MEN FOR SALE AT $1 A WEEK

Homeless, jobless men, were being offered for sale again—at $1 a week—when this picture was taken at Urban Ledoux's "human auction" in the New York Bowery. Here Ledoux, known as Mr. Zero, is shown, as he "sold" one man to an apartment house janitor who wanted an assistant to sift ashes. Others are shown waiting their turn on the block as an employment campaign for hungry men was opened in Mr. Zero's Lane Duck Club.

NEW TRIAL IN AMUSEMENT PARK SUIT

Court of Appeal Says Jury
Verdict in Supreme Court
Case, Wrong

Vancouver, Nov. 6.—On the appeal of twelve-year-old Leslie Fred Jamieson, the B.C. Court of Appeals has ordered a new trial in the B.C. Supreme Court of his action against the B.C. Amusement Company Limited.

The boy, suing by his father, Fred T. Jamieson, elevator contractor, claimed damages for the loss of the second finger on his right hand. While riding on July 6, 1929, in a boat through a tunnel of the old mill which was operated by defendant company at Hastings Park, the plaintiff's right hand caught, as he alleged, in a nail or sliver on a wooden ledge. The finger had to be amputated.

The case was heard by Chief Justice Morrison and a jury, a verdict was returned, finding contributory negligence, awarding special damages of $102.

The trial judge, subsequently, dismissed the action on the ground that not sufficient evidence was adduced proving that defendant had been guilty of negligence.

The appeal was heard by five judges, who all agreed that the jury's verdict was wrong for the reason that the jury, although allowing special damages for pain and suffering, disfigurement, and inconvenience, sustained by the plaintiff, the jury should have awarded the whole damages, and then apportioned them between the parties according to the degree of fault.

Chief Justice Morrison, in addition, said that inadmissible evidence had been introduced at the trial. "The verdict is a glaring instance of a jury failing to discharge its duty," said Mr. Justice McPhillips.

When the White Em- press Approaches Honolulu

By A TRAVELER

Far off in the distance, just perceptible to the eye, there is a break in the low level sweep of the horizon. Stand by closer the stately white Empress ploughs over the blue with express-like speed.

Many of us have day-dreamed, and have often our thoughts have wandered to the South Seas, to far away isles, and the languid life amid swaying palms. Those of us with a touch of romance in our hearts, how often have we longed to sense first hand the thrill of tropic isles!

Hawaii! or is it a dream? But no, before us lies an emerald isle, which rears its stately palms above the blue, and the great hills stand clothed in purple grandeur. There's Makapuu Point on our starboard bow, and that's the lighthouse which houses one of the world's most powerful lenses. Next we come up to Koko Head. Leaving Koko Head behind, Diamond Head, bold and resolute, confronts us—worthy of the name "Gibraltar of the Pacific." Coming aboard of Diamond Head, we get our first glimpse of that which lies beyond.

Waikiki! at last, the glistening shores of Waikiki Beach. What a picture is there, the long, gleaming stretch of yellow sand, palm fringed, and the lazy surf. Near the centre of the beach, on the water's edge, is situated the War Memorial Natatorium. The beauty of its construction and the setting, rank it as the finest outdoor swimming stadium in the world.

Everyone is on deck now, camera in hand, to record the beauties of this Pacific Paradise. On past Waikiki, the beautiful white "Queen of the Pacific" finds a break in the glistening shore line, and steams through a channel into a harbor, so smooth that all sense of motion ceased.

At the beginning of the channel the native dancing boys join us to dive for the many coins thrown overboard by the passengers. There are about fifty of these Hawaiian youths, who practically live in the water. They are fine divers and swimmers. It is estimated that they retrieve about $10,000 a year, thrown overboard by the visitors to the islands.

Entering Honolulu Harbor the rich coloring of the city and its surroundings are very impressive: luxuriant foliage, great hills, palm-fringed beaches.

The city of Honolulu itself, capital and largest in the territory of Hawaii, lies in the southwestern section of the island of Oahu, on the leeward side, with a truly beautiful harbor at her feet. Her residence districts run up into verdant valleys and crown the slopes and heights, from where magnificent views are to be obtained. Slowly the great ship drifts up to the very modern pier, which is done in cream concrete, of a pleasing style of architecture, tastefully decorated in green.

The end of the pier is surmounted by the Aloha Tower, which bids you welcome to Hawaii.

Such a welcome awaits us! The Royal Hawaiian Band, which welcomes every passenger steamer to the Garden Isle, play and sing Hawaiian melodies. The pier is thronged with hospitable people, happy and smiling, imbued with the spirit of living happily. Smothered in fragrant leis, you go over the gangplank to a veritable modern "Garden of Eden."

INDIAN PRINCES DINE WITH KING

Gorgeous Robes and Jewels

Function

London, Nov. 6.—Indian princes in London for the forthcoming round-table conference on India were guests of the King and Queen at a dinner in Buckingham Palace yesterday evening. In accordance with their custom when dining with royalty, the princes wore their native robes of gorgeously-colored silks with many famous jewels and other ornaments.

The Queen wore a gown of silver, paillette over silver tissue and was also wearing the renowned Cullinan diamond, the largest in the world, a view of which is rarely obtained. Her

CALIFORNIA SUICIDE

San Mateo, Cal., Nov. 6.—Warren Hopkins Clark, wealthy San Francisco snipper, shot and fatally wounded himself in his Hillsborough home yesterday evening. He had recently returned from an eastern trip following a nervous breakdown. The suicide was ascribed to ill-health. He was an officer of Williams, Dimond and Company, and son of Warren Dearborn Clark, an organizer of the American-Hawaiian Steamship Company. A widow and infant child survive him.

In England there is no unemployment among skilled radio mechanics.

women say of the beautiful English ware now packed in Quick Quaker
Oats marked "Chinaware"

There's a thrill in buying Quick Quaker in the package marked "chinaware." For each contains one of our new pieces of English chinaware in the old ivory tint.

This new, higher quality of tableware is made in the finest English potteries—distinctively shaped and bordered with an exquisite floral design in English colourings.

You never tire of Quaker Oats. It's nut-like flavor rouses the appetite—jogs jaded digestions into action. A hearty, nourishing meal, too. Richer than any other cereal in protein, the growth and stamina element of food . . . abundant in carbohydrates, the energy element . . . minerals for bone and teeth . . . plenty of natural roughage for regular elimination.

From every three bushels of Canada's finest oats, only one is good enough to make Quaker Oats. This careful selection at the mills is a reason why Quaker Oats is so good to eat. Packages contain coupons with which you can get fine silverware and other valuable articles.

THUMBS MAY HELP WIN HIM A FORTUNE

James E. Nicholson, of Baltimore, may receive $325,000 for throwing his thumbs out of joint, just as he is doing in the above picture. Nicholson is one of thirteen claimants to a legacy bequeathed by William E. Emery to his grandson, the son of F. F. Georger and his wife, Florence Emery Georger. In support of his claim of being the son of the Georgers, Nicholson demonstrated this thumb trick, declaring, with the support of witnesses and doctors that the ability to dislocate the thumbs is an inherited characteristic and was possessed by Emery. The case is being heard in Newark, N.J.

BAPTISTS ELECT REV. G. REYNOLDS AS PRESIDENT

Island Convention Yesterday Held at First Baptist Church
Many Interesting Addresses Given; Gathering One of Most Successful in Years

Rev. G. A. Reynolds, pastor of First Baptist Church, was yesterday evening elected president of the Island Baptist Association at the annual convention held at the First Baptist Church. Mrs. F. W. McKinnon was elected vice-president and Fred Parfitt was chosen as secretary. The gathering was one of the most successful held by the association in recent years.

Rev. A. J. Bowbrick of Nanaimo opened the afternoon sessions with an address on "The Abundant Life." The speaker stressed the thought that Christ's mission to the world was to give eternal life to all who believed in him.

Rev. C. K. Morse, superintendent of missions for the province, gave an eloquent and touching address on evangelism. This was followed by a lively discussion in which the present-day methods of evangelism were reviewed. Miss Edith Mann, returned missionary from India, in a charming manner presented the claims of India. She spoke of the difficulty of mastering the languages and customs before it was possible to enter upon any intelligent missionary work. Religion in India was the dominating thought in the heart of the people.

Rev. Mr. Reynolds addressed the meeting on "What We Believe and Why We Believe It." Baptists were not Protestants, said the speaker, but traced their history back to the apostles and to Jesus, who founded the church.

Supper was served by the ladies of the First Church and the thanks of the association were tendered them by Rev. Mr. Bowbrick and Mr. Waite.

The evening session opened with a song service by a joint choir from Emmanuel and Douglas Street Churches. Fred H. Parfitt gave an address on "The Rich Young Ruler" and made a special appeal to the young people for enlistment in the Kingdom of God.

DAILY HEALTH SERVICE
Chewing of Toothpicks Is Dangerous Custom

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEE

The toothpick is almost wholly an American institution. It is freely available in restaurants, dining cars, and in many homes.

Just as a horse will suck a stump or a cow will chew a cud, an adult human being may form the habit of walking about with a toothpick in his mouth, or stuck between the teeth, or will manipulate the device on the slightest provocation either in public or in private.

A toothpick is also a handy utensil for manicuring, poking obstructions out of keyholes, and for holding together deviled eggs or lady's sized sandwiches at bridge, luncheon or tea.

As a result of these varied uses of this device, there appear regularly in medical literature the records of cases in which toothpicks or portions of toothpicks have been swallowed and have penetrated various parts of the stomach or intestines, with results that are dangerous and in some instances fatal.

The most recently reported case concerned a man in Florida who suddenly developed severe pain in his right side. He described the pain as being like a knife penetrating his side. The physician who examined him found all of the symptoms of acute inflammation of the appendix and diagnosed the case as acute appendicitis which demanded immediate operation.

The case was complicated by the fact that the patient had to be carried seventy-eight miles in an automobile to the hospital, and on arrival at the hospital there was little time for delay. When the abdomen was opened, the cecum, which is the part of the large intestines to which the appendix is fastened, was found to be surrounded with adhesions and with inflammation. There was also a hard mass loose in the abdomen. When this was taken out it was found to be a whole toothpick covered with material from the intestines. The patient recovered uneventfully after the operation.

When questioned, he denied that he had ever swallowed toothpicks, but he stated that he frequently used a toothpick following his meal and sometimes dropped off to sleep with one in his mouth. He also stated that he regularly ate sandwiches held together by toothpicks, so that it was not certain just which of his bad habits was responsible for his trouble.

Incidentally, he remarked that when he fell asleep with a toothpick in his mouth, his wife would usually come and remove it, so that it is quite possible that the fault lay entirely with his wife for failing to remove the toothpick while he was asleep.

The physician who reports this case suggests that all toothpick users make certain that the wife is faithful in her duties, or that a string be tied to the toothpick when not in use.

BOAT SEIZURE IS PROTESTED

Providence, R.I., Nov. 6.—A complaint against the United States coast-guard for seizure of the motorship Manzel-Tor was lodged yesterday by her captain, Frank R. Cook, with Henry D. C. Dubois, British vice-consul for Rhode Island.

Captain Cook, who is under bail for eight of the Manzel-Tor's crew for hearing on charges of conspiring to smuggle liquor into the United States, presented a written statement to the vice-consul alleging his vessel was seized last Saturday outside the twelve-mile limit and he and his crew were held "incommunicado" for fifty-one hours before arraignment. All of the crew claim to be Canadians.

Mr. Dubois, Captain Cook and Joseph E. Fitzpatrick, counsel for the crew, said they intended to press the complaint before E. M. Gray, British Consul-General at Boston.

The Manzel-Tor was picked up by the coast destroyer Tucker.

HAD BEEN IN BAD HEALTH SINCE HE LEFT SWEDEN

New Sargon First Medicine to Put Him Back on Feet, Says Johanson

"Although I like it here very much, there's a great difference between the climate in Canada and my old country, Sweden," declared P. Egon Johanson, well-known carpenter of 431 Princess St., Vancouver, while talking to the Sargon representative recently.

P. EGON JOHANSON

"I think the change was one thing that affected my health. It seemed so warm I hardly ever wore a coat, and here about three weeks ago I caught a bad cold that settled in my back. The pains up between my shoulder blades were terrific; when I'd lie down it would be even worse and I got to where I could hardly sleep a wink at night. If I raised my head and bent my neck, I'd just groan with pain. I also had trouble with hard lumps in my stomach; it seemed like even the change in food over here went against me, and sometimes I'd be almost more than I could do to keep going.

"Every kind of medicine I tried seemed too strong for my stomach, just upset me worse than ever, until one day I bought a treatment of this new Sargon. From the first dose I began to feel better; those hard lumps went out of my stomach and everything I ate seemed to digest perfectly. But the biggest surprise was when those pains in my back disappeared. I sleep fine every night now and can 'sail through' a hard day's work with my old-time strength and vigor.

"I also used the Sargon Pills and they weren't too strong like other laxatives—just kept me regulated in an easy, natural way like I hadn't even taken any medicine. I'm sure that I ran across just the right treatment and I'll always speak a good word for it every chance I get."

Sargon may be obtained in Victoria and Vancouver from all Owl Drug Stores; in New Westminster from the New Westminster Drug Store; in Port Moody from Charles Hudson.

ZONING BY-LAW HAS MANY TEETH COUNCIL HEARS

Measure Is Attacked on Several Grounds at Hearing on Amendment

Criticism and praise of the city zoning by-law was heard yesterday afternoon when the City Council held a special session on the "Zoning By-Law Amendment By-Law," in accordance with procedure.

Need for revision of the whole zoning code was stressed by several speakers and many suggestions were advanced. While certain sections were vigorously attacked as working a direct hardship on property owners and builders, it was stated the by-law had several meritorious points.

The main objection was raised by the Real Estate Board, which suggested annulment of the whole measure and re-enactment of other regulations.

David Leeming, chairman of the Real Estate Board, the first speaker, declared at the outset he would like to discuss the zoning question as a whole. On motion of Alderman R. A. C. Dubois, it was decided to hear a full and free discussion of zoning matters.

Mr. Leeming then continued, pointing out that the zoning by-law worked hardship on property owners in several instances. While the by-law itself should be altered to relieve the situation, wider powers should be allowed to zoning board of appeal.

Recommendations of the Real Estate Board, which would give in effect, greater liberty to property owners in use of their own land for building purposes, were then outlined by Mr. Leeming.

In the course of his talk, Mr. Leeming deprecated the fact that the zoning committee of the council could refuse a man permission to build a certain business structure in an area where the location was already "adequately served."

Mayor Anson questioned this point, on the ground that even the council itself had no right to do such a thing and Alderman W. T. Straith explained that in the particular instance referred to, it had been only one of a number of reasons why the location had been refused.

Major Anson questioned this point, on the ground that even the council itself had no right to do such a thing and Alderman W. T. Straith explained that in the particular instance referred to, it had been only one of a number of reasons why the location had been refused.

In conclusion Mr. Leeming stressed the fact that the proposed amendments to the zoning by-law were inadequate to meet the needs of realtors, who represented large interests in the city.

Alderman Straith, following Mr. Leeming's remarks, said the city was ready to ask the Provincial Government to alter the Town Planning Act to allow the Zoning Board of Appeal. If this was done would the Real Estate Board be satisfied, he asked.

Mr. Leeming said the Real Estate Board had not fully considered this point. He realized that the Zoning Appeal Board was considerably hampered by the existing regulations.

J. Copeland, barrister, appeared on behalf of clients seeking rezoning of property near the C.P.R. inner harbor docks. R. Shandley, on behalf of the owner of property at the corner of Cormorant and Quadra Streets, sought alteration of the by-law to provide for continued use of the site for a funeral parlor, provided it was disused at any time.

Alderman Straith declared the Union of B.C. Municipalities would ask the Legislature at its next session to give powers to the zoning board along this line. At the present time he pointed out, the funeral parlor at the site could not be rebuilt or altered for the same purpose if it was burned or closed down for any long period.

"PATCH WORK" BY-LAW.
H. P. Patterson referred to the "patch work" zoning by-law, being built up by the city. He recommended that apartment houses be barred from single family dwelling districts.

A. H. Harman suggested need of compensating owners of property which had its value lowered because of zoning regulations. This was done in other countries and there was no reason why it should not be done here.

The new amendment practically meant the repeal of the zoning by-law, according to L. G. Gale. It allowed building of apartment houses in any locality and this defeated the objects of the original by-law, he said.

STREY NEEDED
Mr. Gale recommended that the present by-law be made an "interim" by-law and that the city ask funds from the Provincial Government to make a survey of the situation prior to passing of a final measure.

Perry Fox, architect, told of experience with the practical working of the zoning by-law. In Vancouver, he said, several large building projects had been halted by the interim by-law. In his own office, Mr. Fox said, approximately $135,000 worth of work had been abandoned owing to zoning regulations since the by-law was in force.

He attacked the attitude of civic zoning officials with regard to the limiting of retail stores and garages in certain areas, maintaining that the city had no right to dictate on this matter.

Victoria had been built up without a zoning by-law and was to-day one of the most beautiful cities on the American continent, Mr. Fox said, at the same time referring to some of the laudable features in the measure.

WHY THEY STRUCK

To the Editor:—In case of any misunderstanding we wish to state that the reason why the pin setters left the Olympic recreations last night was that the manager refused to entertain our request for $7 per week.

Our hours were 8 a.m. to 6 p.m., day shift, and 6 p.m. to 12 p.m., night shift. On either shift we had no time off for lunch. On night shift we had no time for rest.

Our pay was 3 cents per game, and if there was no business, there was no pay, although we cleaned up the place every day. The pin setters had no way of keeping track of what they earned.

HIGHER EDUCATION

To the Editor:—We are continually being told by Mr. Hinchey and other educationists and lecturers that character-building and development of the moral sense are more important than textbook study. Juvenile crime has, throughout the Dominion, increased to a deplorable extent, and the average age of our jail population, which used to be forty-two years, is now only twenty-two years. Anyone will concede that the finest schools and the most law abiding so why all this campaigning against higher education? It is the inalienable right of every child that its God-given intellect should be developed. Canadians should accept that their children are not made into a nation of peasants and mechanics merely to suit the convenience of a political party, and also that the natural energy of youth is not changed to levity and laxity, which is another way of retarding mind development.

PRO BONO PUBLICO.

WORTHY CAUSE

To the Editor:—To most of us in the city and district, the work that is being done in the Red Cross work shop is familiar to some extent, but after an invitation kindly extended to Mrs. Oldfield and myself to visit the shops, I was very greatly impressed by the wide variety of the work, the excellent workmanship is too well-known to comment upon. The purpose behind the work is of the utmost importance and may sometimes be lost sight of. The workers are all severe handicapped, and were it not for this opportunity provided by the Red Cross, it would be impossible for them to compete in their lines of work. Splendid as the result of the work has become, it can only succeed with the wholehearted support of the public. I understand that the work is nearly finished, and that the goods are being sold at the present time, but there is a long waiting list, which could be taken care of were sufficient funds available. It is essential, therefore, that this deserving industry receive sustained support.

Visitors are welcomed and every courtesy is shown. A few moments spent in this way cannot help but impress one with the splendid nature of the work, and at the same time familiarize one with the variety and utility of the articles produced.

H. C. OLDFIELD.

Acting Reeve Saanich Municipality.

RED CROSS NEEDS

To the Editor:—I understand that some enquiries have been made as to why the Red Cross Society in British Columbia is at present in greater need of support from the public than it has been for some years past. The explanation is simple.

At the armistice, the Red Cross Head Office at Toronto found itself in possession of a large sum of money which, had the war continued, would have been sent overseas. From this fund grants have been made to some of the provinces from year to year to assist them, until they became self-supporting, in carrying on the peace-time work which the nation who signed the Treaty of Peace pledged themselves to undertake.

Up to then end of 1923, British Columbia received in this way, grants amounting to upwards of $200,000. The central fund has now been exhausted and each province must rely upon its own resources for the future.

Last year the head office of the British Columbia division, which up to that time had been located in Vancouver, closed down from lack of funds and the executive agreed that it should be reopened at Victoria, being the capital. Contributions from citizens of Victoria and Vancouver, as well as a grant from the Provincial Government, have enabled it to carry on up to the present time, but its treasury is now nearly exhausted and it must rely upon the result of the present campaign and one to be carried on shortly in Vancouver, if it is to be enabled to continue its work.

The contrast between the large sums contributed to the Red Cross when our boys were struggling to save us from the financial ruin, both public and private, which German victory would have involved, and the meagre contributions of today, is a sad commentary.

HONORS LOST LOVE OF GOLD RUSH

Back in 1897 and 1898, when the Klondike gold rush was at its height, a girl named Mollie Walsh ran a tent-restaurant at the headwaters of the Yukon and became famous as the "flap-jack queen." A miner named John "Packer Jack" Newman loved her, but she spurned him for one Mike Bartlett, whom she married. Three years later Bartlett cut her throat with a knife and she died. Newman, who was then in the city of Skagway, is shown here with the statue.

ODD-JOB NOBLEMAN BACK IN U.S.

Probably the only titled odd-job man in the world, Mr. John Fager is pictured above with his bride as they returned to Boston from England, where he acquired an inherited baronetcy. He was married in Europe to the former Mrs. Florence Goss Murdock of Marshfield, Mass. Only the title was left from the estates which the erstwhile gardener, waiter, newsboy and shoestring maker inherited.

Butions up to the present for those who suffered so much in its accomplishment, is a sad commentary on our sense of gratitude.

Let us change all this and, by a generous response to the present appeal, show that we really are not ungrateful.

RETURNED MEN

To the Editor:—It has now come to the time when the cases of the returned men who are in receipt of pensions and are out of employment should be tackled right away. The unemployed married men and single men have been given relief work, but up to the present, nothing has been done for the man who is in receipt of a pension, outside of meal tickets for a single man or a few groceries for the married man. For the information of those who, perhaps, are not aware of the facts I would like to point out that a pension is not entitled to any of the relief work. Further, all men in receipt of pensions, are not getting what some people may have in mind—that is, large pensions. We, as returned men in receipt of small pensions, are not in favor of being handed out charity. Give us work of a nature we can do so that we may be able to provide for our little ones. In this city practically all office janitor work is taken up by foreign labor. If in the event of a call—as we had in 1914—to defend the country to which we belong—would they call on those who at present are holding down such jobs as some of us can handle? Now, I would suggest, that we, as pensioners, should take this matter up in a body, and the support of our comrades who are in receipt of full pensions would be greatly appreciated by their comrades who are in dire need through no fault of their own.

PRINCESS PAT
KEEPING FAITH?

To the Editor:—The present government at Ottawa is carrying out the new Soldiers' Pension Act brought in by the Liberals, in spirit, but the returned men is being harassed as never before.

With the pension cheques, which came this month, is a form which has to be sworn before a notary, etc., to the effect that the pensioner is the person to whom the award was made.

Some of us living in the country have to travel twenty-five miles to perform this duty, and in addition pay a fee of fifty cents to the commissioner, or else lose our hard earned pension. But, of course, the large number of notaries, etc., which have been appointed lately have to be given a handout, even if it is at the expense of the returned man.

The following episode will show that unless a man is doing nothing he is unable to apply to the board for a pension.

A man in Victoria was advised by his doctor that his disability had increased very considerably and to apply for a pension. He did so and was told to go over to Vancouver, where he was kept hanging about Shaughnessy Hospital for several days, and then got away by protesting. The actual examination took very little time. The result of this was that he lost a small part; time job which was his only means of existence. This having been reported to the various associations, the men are afraid to apply for pensions lest they meet with a similar fate.

Everything possible is being done to discourage anyone from applying for any of the relief measures under the new act.

They were new to the ways of the House and its problems and unacquainted with administrative routine. On the other side of the House they were confronted by several experienced parliamentarians smarting under their repulse, who have shown no leniency to their opponents and made no allowance for their inexperience in public affairs.

Mr. Galer said. "For the first six months of this year our sales showed a substantial decrease as compared with the first half of 1929. In June we hit the bottom, but since that time we have been climbing steadily and in October we beat our figures for October, 1929."

Mr. Galer up to six months ago represented Studebaker interests in England, having been there two and one-half years. After visiting the coast he will leave for the prairies and Ontario this week-end.

In discussing company business Mr. Galer pointed out that Ontario tops the sales list, with Quebec second, the Maritimes third, British Columbia fourth and the prairies last. British Columbia Vancouver, Nov. 6.—After hearing the assertions by delegates that workers had died as a result of the use of paint sprayers, the convention of the All-Canadian Congress of Labor, unanimously adopted a resolution here yesterday voicing opposition to the use of these "guns" and requesting they be disallowed by law.

Taking the expressed view that "they could not stop the wheels of progress," the delegates voted down a resolution criticizing the Canadian National Railways for a policy of replacing men with machinery and the "rushing" of employees under efficiency methods.

TO-DAY'S GRAIN MARKETS

(By Branson, Brown and Co. Ltd.)

Winnipeg, Nov. 6.—Wheat: The wheat market was fairly active to-day with a better class of business passing. Export and seaboard houses were in the market and sales were brisk and again this morning were estimated around 1,000,000 bushels.

There was also considerable short covering, while at the same time prices were so liberal until prices were 1½ above the previous close at which level there seemed to be plenty of wheat for sale and top levels were difficult to reach. Despite the fact that Chicago closed strong.

Liverpool closed ¼ to ½ up and due ½ lower. Buenos Aires was 2½ cents higher, which would seem to indicate that the rust scare was serious, more so than anticipated.

In the cash market there was a fairly good demand for most grades, shippers and millers being in the market at the card prices, but there was no tendency to increase bids, despite the fact that offerings were not pressing.

There was little change in the flour situation and mills report only a small business passing from time to time. The market was quiet with the past few days and was due for an upturn, but there is very little, if anything, in the upturn in prices, as the market was probably technically weaker for the short covering to-day. Winnipeg futures closed ¼ to ½ higher, holding about half the earlier bulge.

Coarse grain demand was not as strong to-day, but business volume was very small. There was very little for sale in the pit and supplies appear to be fairly strong.

WHEAT MARKETS MAY RALLY ON ARGENTINE RUST SCARE

After early weakness grains firmed to-day, with Winnipeg closing three-quarters of a cent higher, and Chicago one cent up.

"With conditions prevailing, which normally have great influence as price-making factors, wheat traders are inclined to be optimistic as to the trend of the market," The Chicago Tribune to-day says. "Weather conditions in the Argentine are favorable for the development of rust with rain and high temperatures being reported."

"The Australian wheat crop is now being estimated at as high as 210,000,000 bushels, the largest on record, and companies with 123,000,000 bushels harvested last year."

The break this week has carried rye off to the lowest prices since 1898. The Chicago Tribune points out to-day.

"Wheat seems struggling to stage the rally which has been predicted during the last couple of days," said H. W. Laird in his market comment to-day. "If conditions are ripe for the rally, it may come very quickly and should run at least four cents. There is a chance for the bulls to work on the rust scare in Argentina. There is something doing there, as the Argentine markets came up sharply two points to-day."

BELL TELEPHONE BOND MARKET SETS $10,000,000 IN DOLDRUMS; FOREIGNS FIRM FOR EXPANSION

Toronto, Nov. 6.—Acting more independently of New York, the Toronto Stock Exchange market went through a featureless session to-day with volume of trading showing a decline at 15,000 shares. Stocks left off practically at the same price level as that at which they had opened some of the inter-listed issues were easier around nickel, Brazilian, Imperial, International Petroleum, Service Stations, Walkers, Distillers, Bell Telephone left unchanged to slightly higher.

There was a small fraction and Massey-Harris closed under last night. B. A. Oil failed to recover all of a small loss earlier.

Toronto, Nov. 6.—Growth of long-distance service of the Bell Telephone Company is evidenced by the intention of the company to spend $10,000,000 this year in Ontario and Quebec on this branch of activity. Seventy-two circuits will be equipped with telephone repeater paraphernalia before the close of the current year.

J. E. McPherson, vice-president in commenting upon the astonishing growth of the telephone industry in Canada points to the fact that the Bell has connecting lines with 830 independent telephone systems in Ontario and Quebec. These in turn have 140,000 telephones connected with the Bell long-distance lines, and act as feeders for an additional source of income.

Laura Secord Candy Shops Limited, is expected to show profits this year of $500,000 or more, a share, practically on a par with earnings of last year. The annual report is expected to be released to shareholders within a short time and it is understood will compare favorably when consideration is given to business conditions of the past year.

Rust reports from Argentine suggested more concern, conditions being unfavorable in Cordoba, large shipments from Russia, a 240,000 bushel demand, absorption of the May has been a little more impressive and the market acted as if the bearish features had been pretty thoroughly discounted.

Cash demand here was fair and there is no great pressure on the spot market, while all indications suggest heavy consumption of wheat on the farms.

Foreign news outside of possible rust damage in the Argentine was not specially encouraging for all that there is reason to believe the consumption abroad is very heavy as well as in this country. At the price level, the investment demand for wheat is likely to be broad with any evidence that prices will hold.

Corn: On the corn crop met good support with sharp rally in the late trade. Many feel that the movement of corn has been discounted at least to a great extent and the crop shortage will be effective in the long run. Prices are down to a level where purchases at least for quick turns seem advisable on the sharp dips. Seven For a Secret

By MARY WEBB

On the upper half of the window Robert saw a picture of Gillian in the slaty dress, which was real to him because she had described it, lying as he had often seen a wild duck lie, with one broken wing trailing out beside it.

"I reckon she is as she dunnah," "We mustn't let it be to drive her to the station to-morrow-day, Bob?"

"No, me."

Jonathan fell into a seemingly mystical contemplation of his pegg. The clock registered a quarter of an hour.

"Flocks, hill pasture, a new shippen and a sight of money in the bank, so they do say!" he remarked.

Robert came out of a dream of wild duck and rose-colored pelargoniums. "Money? What money?"

"Money as young Gillian Lovelkin'll get when the master goes."

"Money," said Robert, going on with his work, "isn't worth dunnah."

"Dear aches, man! It buys all but Paradise. And some say it buys even that."

"Can it buy love?"

"So they do say!" Jonathan chuckled. "Where do they say that?"

"At the public—the 'Naked Maid'."

"I dunna like that name. Why dunnah they say 'The Merman's Rest' like the sign says?"

"Well, lad, there she is over the door, shameless as the Woman of Babylon, mother-naked to the waist. We call 'er what she is. I'm thankful she's got some decent scales. She's not so decent as Eve in my poor mother's Bible. It's little wonder to me as Adam went wrong. Now if Eve had bought a calico chemise and a pair of stays and a tutu and petticoats and a nice print dress and apron, there'd be no such May-maids with serpents and apples and what not. Maybe their eldest would ha' bin a decent lad and brought up a family close by the old people, and there'd never ha' bin niggers then."

"Why ever not?"

"Cain's love-children were the beginning of the niggers."

"Where Jonathan had gained his Scriptural (and apocryphal) knowledge was a mystery. This, and the legendary lore of the countryside, formed the basis of the tales for which he was famous.

"Paint the wench out, I say, or paint a bodice in. It draws the eye like that. It's half to the lads. For till they get married and find out what a poor ornery thing an 'oman is, the lads think she's summat grand and curious."

Suddenly, in the midst of the dream of wild duck and pelargoniums, Gillian's face swam up on the green sky with the pale, fleshy body of the mermaid on the sign. Robert got up, threw the pegs on the floor, and walked up and down the little room. Two strides and a half. Turn. Two strides and a half. Turn. He must stop this garrulous old voice, or lead it elsewhere.

Tell about the mermaid coming first," he said.

"Washed ashore at Aberdovey. Ah! That's what came to pass. High tides they get at Aberdovey, time and again."

This was a spring tide like none's seen since. A sort of queer shells and seaweed came in on that tide, and colored fishes and sea flowers from countries far away. And her. There she lay in a sound among the green weed, and a fisherman found her and went high mad with love. So she wiled him and she bewitched him, and she sang at him:

"Back to the sea, fisherman! Back to the sea!"

"No danger!" says he. And kisses her.

"Put me in fresh water then," she says, "so long as it is water."

"What'll you give me?" he says. "My love for one night!"

"But you're a cold mermaid. You can't love!"

"I'll come mortal for one night!"

"So she came mortal for one night. And in the grey dawn he chuckled her into the river. And she swam up stream to the top of a mountain, and crept across to the spring of another stream, and so to another again, and at last she was at Dygwelfs Inn, just where the little road goes down to the stream. And she sang at the innkeeper, and wiled him away. Some say they went down to Severn, and some say they went to the Mermaid's Rest, like the sign says."

BRILL

By WM. K. McKENNEY
Secretary, American Bridge League

Players often complain of poor cards, and bad breaks when in reality game is lost due to carelessness and poor play. There is nothing difficult about the play given in the following hand, but the declarer will easily lose game if he does not stop and think.

THE BIDDING
South, the dealer, opened the contracting with one no trump. While the hand contains a count of seventeen and all four suits stopped, the spades and clubs are a little too hollow to ask partner to raise to three no trump if he has a count of seven, which would be the case if two no trump were the original bid. West passed. As two diamonds would be a warning bid requesting partner to discontinue the bidding, but as the hand contains two high card tricks and a long diamond suit, North's proper bid is three diamonds. South then takes the declaration to three no trump, which closes the contracting.

THE PLAY
West opened his diamond suit fourth best, leading the three spot, dummy plays the four. East shows out and decides to protect the spade and club suits, discarding the six of hearts, declarer wins the trick with the king. Declarer now stops to count his tricks before proceeding with the next play. If he grants his opponents one diamond trick, he can make five diamonds, two clubs and the ace of hearts—eight tricks in all. If the heart finesse is right, he can make game, or if he can get a good lead back from West to either the spades or the clubs, he may pick up an extra trick there.

The queen of diamonds is led. West following with the deuce and dummy must overtake the ace so as to be able to set the diamond suit and still have an entry with the ace of clubs. An other heart is discarded by East. The ten of diamonds is returned. East discarding another heart, declarer has the four hearts, West winning with the jack.

Rather than give the declarer an advantage, West returns a diamond to dummy, winning with the nine, East discarding the nine of hearts and declarer the deuce of spades. Two more hearts of diamonds are continued from dummy, East discarding the jack of hearts and three of spades, declarer dropping the four of spades and three of clubs. West discarding the deuce of hearts on the second diamond lead.

Dummy shifts to the heart suit. East discarding a small club, declarer leads the king of clubs, and returning the queen of hearts, throwing West in the lead. West is forced to lead the jack of clubs which he discards with his dummy, the ace. The deuce of clubs is returned from dummy, declarer finessing the ten spot, which holds the trick and then discards the club.

By overtaking his queen of diamonds and immediately setting that lead suit in dummy the declarer has made his contract of three odd.

ous task of marking out a slight groove round the stick, she would relax. Finally, when he flung the peg on to the heap, she would sigh, smile, and take up her parable. So, it was only in scattered sentences that Robert heard how the new dress fitted; how Miss Gillian had bought a pink ready-made blouse, three white night-dresses, not unbleached, such as she usually wore—shoes with heels, and a veil; how lovely he looked in the toque made of the slaty drake; how she had taken six rabbit skins to the chief draper at Weeping Cross, and had them made into a muff and tip-top; how she had laughed like half a dozen woodpeckers, and sung like a dozen thrushes, and how they had finally made some paste and fastened on the label:

Miss Juliana Lovelkin,
Passenger to Silvertown.

Ah, how sad the white eye of the pelargonium! Almost it seemed to Robert that a dew had fallen in that quiet room, for he saw it through tears.

"A fine minglingumbus. And only to go for her 'anies!" observed Jonathan.

"Going open the door of the world," said Abigail, turning the stockpot upside down over an immense basin, and proclaiming supper.

Robert hummed very softly:

"And howsoever far I'd roam,
I could find the smiles and tears of whom."

"What a kimet!" began Jonathan, looking at him open-mouthed. But at this point he cut himself, and Abigail took command. She had everything at hand. No trick of an unkind fate could surprise her. She had simple disinfectants, ointments, clean needles for thorns, soft linen, bandages, even a bit of iron for cauterizing. In case some mad dog should seek out Jonathan and bite him (which Abigail was sure would happen if there were any case of rabies in the West Country). While she bound him up, she made him feel like a wounded hero, so that a glow came over him, and he enjoyed his troubles, and the idea that he was clumsy was never allowed to enter his mind.

Robert looked at the heap of pegs beside Jonathan. They would take him till midnight with his own. It did occur to him to leave them undone. There was the task, just as in potato setting or haying, and if one was incapacitated, the others must do more.

"What time'll she start, mother?"

"The noon train."

Uncle Wiggly's Sunshine Bottle

(Copyright, 1930.)

By HOWARD R. GARIS

Though the weather was getting cold in Woodland, near the Orange Ice Mountains, where Uncle Wiggly lived in his home, stumpy bunyole, sturdy now and then, came a warm, sunny day when all the animals were happy. They knew winter was coming, for they did not live in the warm Southland, where there is seldom any snow. And though the animals like the warm, sunny days, there were some who had to make sure it would be filled to the very top before she corked it. "I like outdoor sunshine much better. There, I think I have enough now," she said as she stuffed the cork in the old pickle bottle. "I'll take it home and when it gets cold and cloudy, and we need sunshine to make us feel glad and happy, I'll open my bottle and let a little out."

"That's a fine idea," said Uncle Wiggly. "I think I'll get a bottle and catch some sunshine for myself."

"Get a milk bottle," advised Bunty. "That's bigger and it will hold a terrible lot of sunshine."

"I will," said Uncle Wiggly, quickly hopping to his stumpy bunyole. "You can stop it up with a bunch of grass so the sunshine can't get out after you catch it," said Baby Bunty when Uncle Wiggly got back to where she sat on the hillside. "I never saw a cork for a milk bottle," Uncle Wiggly said he hadn't either.

"Won't it be fun, and won't everybody be surprised?" whispered the orphan rabbit to Mr. Longears, "when there comes a cloudy day and we let the sunshine out of our bottle?"

"Oh, won't they be surprised?" murmured Mr. Longears. Then he and Baby Bunty watched the sunshine fill the milk bottle. They could hardly wait for a dark day to let some of it out. And what happened next I shall tell you to-morrow. The story then will be about Uncle Wiggly's dark night when Uncle Wiggly got back to where she sat on the hillside. "I never saw a cork for a milk bottle," Uncle Wiggly said he hadn't either.

"Won't it be fun, and won't everybody be surprised?" whispered the orphan rabbit to Mr. Longears, "when there comes a cloudy day and we let the sunshine out of our bottle?"

"Oh, won't they be surprised?" murmured Mr. Longears. Then he and Baby Bunty watched the sunshine fill the milk bottle. They could hardly wait for a dark day to let some of it out. And what happened next I shall tell you to-morrow. The story then will be about Uncle Wiggly's dark night when Uncle Wiggly got back to where she sat on the hillside. Can the Love Thief Be Adequately Punished By Law?—Why the Sons of Self-made Men Are Seldom Go-getters—Bachelor Girl vs. Old Maid

DEAR MISS DIX—Is there a man-made law to punish "the woman in the case"? We know there is a God-made law that will surely be enforced in the hereafter, but why can a woman with the subtlety of a serpent and the allurements of youth step in and take the husband from the wife, the father from his little children, the son from a mother, rob the man of his honor and respectability, and go unpunished? If there is such a law, why is it never enforced? If there is no such law, why is there not? Why let the woman go free to do over again her hellish deeds? Why legislate against all crime and let the most damnable of all go unpunished? T. D. N.

Answer: We have a law that permits the aggrieved husband or wife to sue the home-wrecker and demand a monetary consideration for the alienation of the affections of the errant spouse.

You can hardly pick up a paper in which you do not read of some man who is demanding forty or fifty or a hundred thousand dollars as the price of his wife's love, which some other man has stolen away from him, or of some woman who is suing some other woman for a large sum for having purloined her husband's affections from her.

It is a grotesque and a sordid thing to assess the damage done in breaking up a home in dollars and cents, to try to heal a hurt with a poultice of greenbacks. But so far it seems to be the only method we have been able to devise for punishing those who commit the most dastardly and the most terrible of crimes.

For the sheik and the vamp are worse than thieves and murderers. Those who rob a woman of her husband and little children of their father have taken from them something infinitely more valuable than gold or jewels. Those who slay a woman's faith and love have done something far worse to her than if they had killed her body.

But there never can be any man-made law that can deal adequately with such criminals, because home-wrecking is always an inside job. The love thief has an accomplice. There is always the husband or wife who was accessory before the crime. They, at least, opened the window and left the door unlocked.

To save his face, every man whose wife is unfaithful to him pretends that he was the helpless victim of some man who captured her and bore her shrieking away from him. Every woman salves her vanity by trying to believe that her husband is the helpless victim of some siren who, by some black magic, won him away from her and his children and made him forget his honor and his duty.

But this is never true. The really virtuous woman who loves her husband is as safe from lotharios as if she were locked up in a steel vault. Every wife who goes astray meets the seducer at least halfway, and the fault is no more his than hers.

So also with men. The world is full of adventurers seeking as their prey married men with fat pocketbooks; but no man need be captured by one of these pirates unless he desires to. No man need surrender to them if he is willing to flee from danger or put up a fight against them.

Undoubtedly the woman who uses her youth and beauty to win a man away from his wife and children and who ruthlessly breaks up his home in order to gratify her own desire for what he can give her deserves to be punished. But so does the poor, weak, miserable creature who lets himself be flattered and cajoled into forgetting the vows he made at the altar.

He who turns traitor to his own flesh and blood commits a sin greater than that of the woman, because he had his obligations to his wife and children, and she had none. DOROTHY DIX.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—What do you think of a man who, when he was very poor and who had to work hard to climb up the ladder to the height he now occupies, but who indulges his own boys in everything they want and who encourages them in idleness? What effect will this have on the children? F. E. L.

Answer: It is, perhaps, natural that parents who have had hard lives themselves should wish their children to have everything soft and easy and that those whose youth knew bitter poverty should be overlavish to their children. But the result is disastrous.

It gives us the "second-generation" who are wasters and spendthrifts, who throw away the money that their hard-working parents have earned, who seem to be without either stamina or morals and who make true the old proverb: that in America it is only three generations from shirt sleeves to shirt sleeves.

These fathers and mothers who are so overindulgent to their children forget that, try as they may, they cannot satiate life for their children; that their boys and girls must meet the same sorrows, the same disappointments that everyone else does; that they must make the same struggle that others make, and that, if they have not been disciplined at home, if they have not acquired grit and courage, they will go down when they come to grips with existence.

You seldom see a self-made man's son who is worthy of his father or who can fill his father's shoes when the "old man" dies. The reason for this is that his father made things too soft and easy for him. He did not have to struggle as father did. He did not learn self-denial. He did not have courage and the fighting instinct bred in him, so he failed when the test came.

We do not train prize-fighters by having them roll on silken cushions. DOROTHY DIX.

DEAR MISS DIX—What is the difference between a bachelor girl and an old maid? MAE MURRAY.

Answer: The term "old maid" is obsolete. It is used now only by ignorant or provincial people. It was formerly used as a term of reproach to designate a woman who lacked attractiveness to men, and who, in spite of the most strenuous endeavors, failed to catch a husband.

The women to whom this epithet was applied resented it so much that many of them married men who were absolutely repulsive to them in order to escape it.

The bachelor girl is a woman who has passed forty years of age and who, for reasons of her own, has elected to remain unmarried.

It indicates that the woman so designated had good common sense, courage and a love for freedom and instead of being a term of opprobrium it is one of admiration and honor.

The old maid was pitied by other women. The bachelor girl is generally envied by her sex. The old maid was a woman who couldn't get married. The bachelor girl is one who wouldn't. DOROTHY DIX.

Lake Hill Women Held Wool Bees; Other Activities

The monthly meeting of Lake Hill Women's Institute was held on Tuesday afternoon, with seventeen members, the president, Mrs. Scott, in the chair. Reports of committees showed a successful wool bee when three wool quilts had been made, two card parties held during October, and the Halloween party in aid of Solartium, at which $30 in cash and sixty donations of fruit and vegetable were taken in. The provisions have been forwarded to the Solartium, and the cash will be paid into the Otho Scott endowment fund.

Mrs. Peddie reported on the pottery class, eighteen students have registered and good progress is being made. Articles of clothing will be collected and a layette made for settlers in Dawson Creek B.C. in response to an appeal from the Canadian Red Cross.

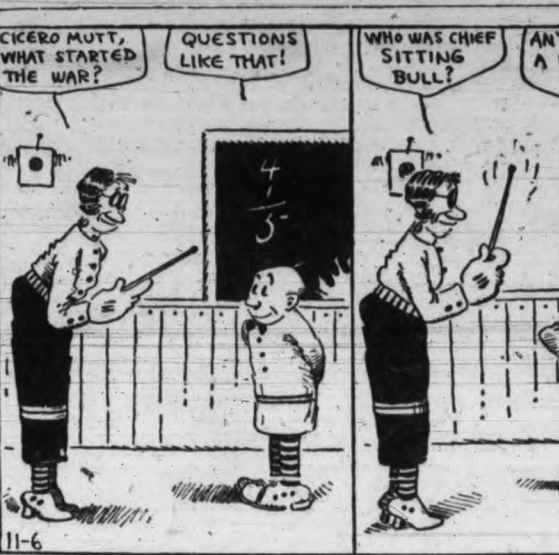

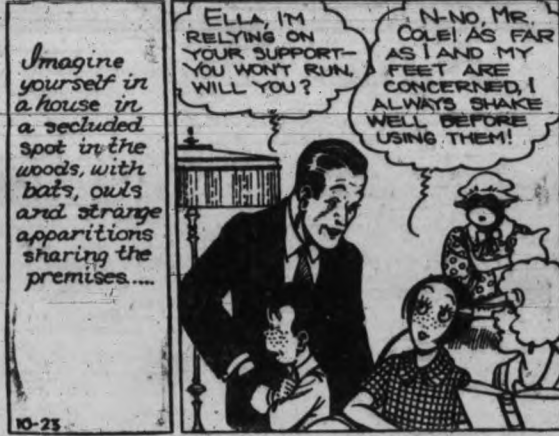

conference, this being received with applause. Mrs. Currie, agricultural convener, volunteered to supply seeds and over-see gardens of any children under thirteen years of age who will undertake to grow flowers and vegetables to exhibit at Ward One exhibition. Daffodil bulbs were distributed to children to grow and exhibit at a date to be arranged later. Nominations for 1931 directors was opened and will continue in December.

WALTER HUSTON IS LEADING PLAYER IN FEATURE AT CAPITOL

A laugh of every line of the dialogue of "The Bad Man," is the basis of the producers, First National and Vitaphone, and judging from the audience reaction when the picture opened to-day at the Capitol, it is true.

"The Bad Man" is a great picture primarily because it was a great play.
It is a distinct and novel story, abounding in laughs, and, under the guise of a Latin temperament, kidding serious-minded Americans to the limit.

Walter Huston gives one of the greatest performances of his career in this picture. He is more dead in character than was Holbrook Blinn's "bad man," but as such he is even more effective, and has lost none of Blinn's humor.

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's musical com-

Dominion Theatre.

Altogether, it is an auspicious debut for the popular young players. The picture is a highly entertaining vehicle and they present a delightful twosome as the hero and heroine of a charming little golf romance.

In directing the picture from the adaptation of the Vincent Lawrence play, Charles F. (Chuck) Reisner, turned out a sparkling production
brimming over with tuneful music, snappy dialogue and hilarious comedy.

McLEOD PLAYERS IN CLEVER COMEDY TO OPEN HERE MONDAY

Monday will see the reopening of the Royal Victoria Theatre for the second season of the Gordon McLeod Players. The first play to be presented will be "Bluebeard's Eighth Wife." Few plays of modern times have enjoyed more popularity than this brilliant farce comedy. Adapted from the French it has lost nothing of its wit and sparkling quality. Laughter is there from beginning to end, and yet there is almost a serious vein at times, so big is the idea which is behind the plot. John Brandon, a millionaire, has had many adventures in matrimony, hence the name Bluebeard. But he has been fickle and bored. When he meets the eighth lady he falls in love with and finds himself matched against a much cleverer brain than his own.
How all the plot is worked out it would not be fair to state, but it creates a play of unusual and delicious comedy which the English players will do full justice to with the fine company that they have brought to Victoria.

COMEDY DRAMA IS
AT THE PLAYHOUSE
WITH POPULAR CAST

Based on a story by William K. Wells, with dialogue by Wells and Andrew Bennison, "On the Level," Fox Move-tome all talking comedy drama, featuring Victor McLaglen, is drawing crowds

William Harrigan, well-known actor of the stage, who recently portrayed a role in "Nix on Dames," another Fox success, enacts the role of McLaglen's
"buddy" and Lillian Tashman appears in the leading feminine role.
